

Israel Advance Repulsed, Suez Sector Battle Rages

By ALY MAHMOUD
CAIRO (AP) — Fighting flared for the second straight weekend between Israeli and Egyptian forces along the Suez Canal — the cease-fire line — and Egypt said it was repelling an Israeli advance today on Port Fuad.

The clash came at Ral El'ish on the east bank, site of three skirmishes last weekend which broke the cease-fire of June 10.

Israel captured nearly all of Egypt east of the canal in the June 5-10 Arab-Israeli war but Port Fuad, a seacoast city at the canal's north entrance still is in Egyptian hands.

An Egyptian communique said the Israelis attempted at 3:30 a.m. EDT to rush tanks and armored cars through the narrow roads parallel to the canal heading for Port Fuad. It said Egyptian shelling destroyed one tank and three armored cars.

An Egyptian radio station — the "Voice of the Arabs" — said the fighting still was raging.

Port Fuad is divided by the canal, with most of its mud huts lying on the west bank. Reliable sources indicated the Egyptians have maintained some positions on the east bank to protect the city.

Egyptian reports say Israeli forces stationed at the east bank town of El Qantara have tried three times in less than 10 days to seize Port Fuad.

Israeli soldiers at Qantara have said Egyptian commandos try almost nightly to sneak across the canal to sabotage Israeli positions.

After the earlier fighting, three Egyptian officers were promoted for "heroic action."

Two Egyptian newspapers published accounts of last weekend's Israeli-Egyptian clash at Ras El'ish.

Egypt claimed destruction of six Israeli tanks and nine armored cars in that fight. The newspapers Al Gomhouriya and Al Akhbar said the result proved that Israel's talk of military superiority is merely a myth when the Israelis fight without the aid of "American treason and British tricks."

Eshkol Credits Rabin

As in today's fighting, Egypt claimed Israeli forces were trying to advance to Port Fuad.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol gave most of the credit for Israel's victory in the June 5-10 war to Maj. Gen. Yitzhak Rabin, chief of staff, and criticized Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

Shortly before the war broke out, Eshkol reluctantly bowed to pressure and made Dayan, member of an opposition party, defense minister. Dayan had led Israel to victory in the 1956 war with Egypt.

He said Friday that "Dayan's entry into the Cabinet improved morale, but the credit for the victory goes to the chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Yitzhak Rabin, and to the government. The self-praise of one man (Dayan) is not honorable. If it continues, then we will have to react."

Dayan is a protégé of former Premier David Ben-Gurion, a political foe of Eshkol. When Ben-Gurion broke away from Eshkol's Mapai party and formed the Rafi party, Dayan went with him.

Eshkol also made a peace gesture toward the Vatican, which wants Jerusalem to be made an international city. Israel captured Jerusalem's Old City from Jordan in the war and has said it will keep it.

Eshkol said Israeli will agree to "a certain measure of control by the Vatican" over Christian holy places in the city.

Arab Summit Gains Urgency

By ELIAS N. ANTAR
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Arab leaders, disappointed by the failure of other nations to agree on a solution to the Middle East crisis, look forward with varying degrees of enthusiasm to a proposed Arab summit conference at which they will try to agree on one themselves.

Whether the meeting proposed for July 15 will turn out to be another inter-Arab squabble or, as Jordan's King Hussein hopes, "a new turning point" in Arab history, remains in doubt.

First Since '65

But holding the summit, the first since September 1965, has gained new urgency as more and more Arab leaders feel a need to promote an image of unity, chart future policy and tell their people what to expect after the catastrophic war with Israel.

Originally called by Sudan and eagerly backed by Jordan, the summit was postponed last month pending the outcome of the debate in the United Nations General Assembly.

The assembly failed to pass any resolution on the disposition of territories occupied by Israel in the June 5-10 war although it said Israel should not annex Old Jerusalem.

Sudan, Kuwait, Iraq, Jordan, Libya and Lebanon have said they want a summit. Hussein has called for "a very thorough going-into of every single thing that has happened and what we can do in the future."

Iraq's minister of Arab Union affairs, Abdel Razzak Mohieddin, was optimistic about the meeting despite the inevitability of disagreements. Writing in a Baghdad newspaper Friday, he said, "It is better that all speak frankly and openly instead of saying one thing and really feeling differently."

SNIPER VICTIMS—The body of David A. Webster is placed on a stretcher as the body of his wife, Marlene, lies in foreground in Vancouver, Canada, Friday, after both were slain by sniper fire. Authorities later apprehended Arthur John Towell, a 35-year-old former RCAF veteran and ex-mental patient, and charged him with the slayings. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

9 Hurt in Mishaps

Dutchess Teener Loses Life

By WALTER S. CLARK, JR.

A 19-year-old Dutchess County youth was killed, nine persons were injured and several others escaped unhurt as the result of a rash of traffic accidents in the area Friday night and early today. Six persons were cited for vehicle and traffic violations.

Hyde Park Fatality

Thomas J. Armstrong, 19, of Nub Street, Hyde Park, was killed at 1:30 a.m. today when his car went out of control on Route 9 four-tenths of a mile south of Red Barn Road, Hyde Park, and slammed into a utility pole.

Rhinebeck State Police said Armstrong was ejected from the vehicle. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Chester Golding, Dutchess County medical examiner. Troopers said the car was equipped with seat belts but they were not used by the driver.

The vehicle was traveling north in the center lane when it started to skid, veered off the left shoulder, hit the pole and rolled over, it was reported.

Malvina Diehl, 60, of 13 Pilgrim Terrace, Poughkeepsie, was injured at 5:15 p.m. yesterday when her car went out of control on Route 9 about 150 feet north of Scenic Drive, Hyde Park. The vehicle went off the left side of the highway and down a 6-foot embankment and hit a utility pole.

Lost Control

The woman was taken to Vassar Hospital and treated for abrasions and contusions of the right arm and both legs, according to Rhinebeck State Police, who investigated. Troopers said the woman was driving north when she reached to the right side of the car to prevent a bag of groceries from dropping on the floor, when she lost control.

Four persons were injured at 1:20 a.m. today as the result of a mishap on Route 9W about one mile south of the Glasco Turnpike, Town of Ulster. State Trooper Fred Cooper of the Kingston substation said Girard Boggs, 19, of 11 West Strand, was driving south when he lost control on a curve.

Michael Bonavita, 40, of Box 175, Glasco, was traveling north when he saw the Boggs vehicle was uncontrolled, and he stopped on the pavement. His car, troopers said, was hit in the rear by a vehicle driven by Mildred Pisani, 39, of Box 174, Saugerties. The Boggs car went off the left shoulder of the highway and hit guard rails.

Passengers Hurt

A report of Sgt. Donald Paulson listed Boggs' injuries as bruises and shock. Passengers in his car were Dennis Landerway, 23, of 10 Thompson Street, and James Courtwright, 22, of 21 Broadway, city. They both suffered shock. Boggs was taken to Kingston Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance. Landerway and Courtwright were removed to the same hospital by Doctor's Ambulance.

Jennie Winters, of Glasco, also was injured, but not seriously, troopers said.

Frances Abamonte, 48, of 6611 111th Street, Forest Hills, was cited Friday night by Leeds State Police for leaving the scene of an accident and backing unsafely after a mishap on Route 32 about 100 feet south of Route 81, Town of Greenville.

Trooper Victor LaPlante said the woman backed her car from a driveway, across Route 32 and hit a parked car owned by Michael P. Anateiello, of Route 81, West Coxsackie. The woman drove away, troopers

DMZ Action: 836 Reds, 17 Leathernecks Die

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON (AP) — Infantry battles and small arms duels along the demilitarized zone over the last week have killed 836 Communist soldiers, the U.S. Command said today.

U.S. Marines, badly battered by enemy artillery and ground assault forces early in the week, claimed overwhelming victory today as they announced that 506 Communists were killed in the past two days, mostly by air and artillery strikes. Marine losses for this period were listed as 17 dead and 46 wounded.

Air Sightings

For the whole week, the Marines lost 134 dead, 631 wounded and 5 missing.

Many of the reports of enemy dead were based on sightings from the air.

In ground action Friday a Marine unit that had lost 12 dead and 30 wounded to North Vietnamese artillery fire Thursday more than evened the score when it caught 200 North Vietnamese in the open northeast of Con Thien.

After the Leathernecks boxed the enemy troops in a narrow draw, blistering air strikes and artillery were called in. A Marine spokesman said 150 enemy bodies were counted after the smoke cleared. No Marines were reported killed in the clash.

Out in the South China Sea hope of recovering alive Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm and five others lost after two B52s collided grew dimmer. Search vessels picked up pieces of debris from the two huge Stratofortresses but reported no sign of the missing crewmen. Thirteen crewmen were scooped out of the sea soon after the collision Friday.

Crumm, a veteran of 26 years of Air Force flying, was scheduled to report to the Pentagon in August as director of Aerospace Programs, U.S. Air Force Headquarters.

The continuing deadly fighting in South Vietnam's northernmost province continued today with new artillery clashes and a pitched battle in which South Vietnamese infantrymen, supported by air and artillery reported they killed another 84 Red troops.

Weights Request

The fighting along the demilitarized zone was reported to U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara on the second day of his Vietnamese inspection tour. He is weighing Gen. William C. Westmoreland's urgent request for troop reinforcements. The heavy North Vietnamese infiltration through the zone is a big factor in Westmoreland's requests. He is believed to have asked for at least another 100,000 troops to bolster the 464,000 now committed to the war.

Before leaving South Vietnam, McNamara will tour the embattled 1st Corps area comprising the five northernmost provinces most-threatened by increasing Communist pressure.

A military spokesman said the casualty figures given for the past week's battles in the demilitarized zone were by actual body count. However, only about one-third were confirmed by ground sweeps and the remainder by observation from high spotter planes and helicopters. The spokesman said that the latest casualty figures had been held up while they were personally reviewed by the Marine commander, Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman.

GOP Meets Monday

Matthews Still Undecided

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

As the Monday night Republican meeting looms, the stock of Constitutional Convention Delegate S. James Matthews for new party chairman appears to be climbing.

Last week's report in The Freeman had former surrogate Judge John B. Sterley shaping up as the "peace candidate" for the post, a compromise that could leave no doubt that there is, as was with the Democrats, factionalism in the party.

In the span of the last week, however, it has been reported that certain party leaders have been attempting to line up support behind Matthews, a move that has been meeting with some success.

The reasons behind the growing success of this venture is an old story in the competitive world of politics.

Outgoing chairman Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson (R-Woodstock) was considered to be one of the obstacles in the path of Matthews' ascendancy to party leadership, and one Republican informant had it that Wilson would have put up a battle if he believed Matthews was going to make the run.

What is happening now is this: power quickly seeps away from a lame-duck leader. When such a man renounces his claim to the throne, a power vacuum is created and rank and file members attempt to fill the void with a search for a leader.

Regardless of the fight that the assemblyman from Woodstock may now be waging to keep the nomination from Matthews, the fact is that Wilson has to rely heavily on some of the old faithfuls to keep the troops in line.

Assemblyman Wilson is not the only Matthews roadblock, however. There are many party stalwarts who do not look upon the young Kingston attorney with favor because he has proved too successful in waging his own campaigns outside of the Republican organization. As such, he may not be looked upon as an organization man.

Matthews himself says that, "I don't know whether I'll run" because "I am not interested in dividing the party" but he does add that "there has been a lot of pressure" for his running.

The convention delegate said that he hoped there could be a real "compromise candidate" around whom the party could unite.

Another difficulty in the Matthews candidacy, outside of his own caution on the matter, rests in the fact that certain other young party hopefuls would rather not see the strongest of leaders in the chair because it could hurt any future move they might want to make.

One young Republican informant said, "It is seen by some who have ambitions for the post that to have a 73-year-old man in the chair for two years may be just the thing to enhance their own moves when Sterley steps down."

Sterley himself has told The Freeman, "I am very optimistic" when asked about his Monday night chances.

The outlook is, however, that an ever stronger Matthews push will be in the cards for the 8 p.m. caucus at the County Court House.

Wants Lawyer Before Plea

By ELIAS N. ANTAR

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A gaunt, 35-year-old Canadian Air Force veteran stood meek and silent in Magistrate Court, charged with the murder of a young couple and the wounding of two others during a wild shooting spree.

Arthur John Towell said only that he would like time to get a lawyer before entering a plea on two counts of first degree murder and two of attempted murder.

Magistrate James Bartman Friday ordered Towell held without bail and said the plea would be heard July 14.

A Police said the shooting with a high-powered rifle, broke out near the University of British Columbia about 9 p.m. Thursday.

Made Own Ammo

Police said the 5-foot, 10-inch, 140-pound Towell collected guns and made his own ammunition as a hobby. They said they found 13 guns, several hundred rounds of homemade ammunition, army ammunition pouches, a bayonet and two army knives in his home.

Deputy Police Chief John Fisk said Towell spent about 15 years in the Canadian Air Force and was discharged about two years ago on medical grounds.

No motive was found for the slayings. Police Staff Sgt. William Porteous said: "The man just went berserk."

David D.A. Webster, 31, an assistant professor of education at the university, and his wife, Marlene, 30, were killed instantly with single shots in the chest. The couple's four orphaned children, aged six months to 10 years, were found by police huddled together in the basement of their home.

Condition of Others

Wounded and reported in fair condition were Mrs. Holda Baxter, 56, of Powell River, B.C., and Mrs. Patti Barrass, 18, a bride of only a few weeks.

Webster was hit as he ran into his back yard after the shooting started. His wife was cut down as she ran to his side.

Mrs. Baxter suffered multiple minor wounds from a bullet and lying glass while she was baby-sitting with her five grandchildren in a home across the street from Towell's.

County Fair Drawing New Exhibitors

Numerous new exhibitors already have applied for space at the Ulster County Fair property on Old Kings Highway two miles southwest of New Paltz, where the 1967 Ulster County Fair will be held August 11, 12 and 13.

The fair has been held for the last 30 years at Forsyth Park in Kingston, but because of its popularity among Mid-Hudson Valley residents and its continued growth the last several years, the fair has grown from a one-day exhibit to the new three-day and two-night event.

Edmund R. Bower, secretary of the Ulster County Fair, said the new site southwest of New Paltz is considered more centrally located in the county than Forsyth Park. He noted that commercial exhibitors for the first time can show their wares under a roof, safe from weather and under lock and key.

All buildings not used by the County Home have been made available for the fair in addition to former hayfields that will be used for parking and the horse show. The horse department is headed by Arthur Heidcamp, who will be assisted by Merritt Soule and Mrs. Irving Hinkelman. There will be a new horse ring and facilities for the 4-H horse show on Saturday, Aug. 12 and the open class show on Sunday, Aug. 13.

Fair premium lists may be obtained at the county fair office 74 John Street, UPO Box 544, Kingston. Those applying should specify the areas in which they are interested in exhibiting. Many classes will carry money awards while some awards will be ribbons.

A large barn will house the dairy exhibits. Supt. Gordon Boice believes the former cattle barn affords better quarters for animals for their three-day stay on the fair grounds. The dairy department will also have its own show ring and in no way will animals be exhibited under crowded conditions. In the event the number of animals to be exhibited outnumbers the cattle building spaces, a tent will supplement the quarters.

The 4-H Department will have its own building. Carlton M. Conklin, superintendent of the 4-H Department with his committee, will exhibit under permanent buildings.

The Granges also will have their own exhibits and display area. Superintendents Jack Nace and Mrs. John Schreiber plan big "goings on" for an anniversary program. Granges have plans for an outdoor play this year.

Sheep, goats, rabbits, poultry and other livestock other than cattle will have their own building. The present hog barn will serve as an excellent building for proper display of this livestock, officials noted.

Fruit and vegetable exhibits will be supervised by Supt. Raphael Klein, whose past experience undoubtedly will make the new area an excellent show place. Flower exhibits will be near the vegetable and garden displays.

The Home Department, which formerly was exhibited in the pavilion at Forsyth Park, will have its displays in an area best suited to the exhibitors and the public.

Arrangements for commercial space should be made with the secretary of the fair.

The County Fair Board is hopeful that Ulster residents and their friends in neighboring areas will support this year's fair by attendance and exhibiting their products, hobbies and businesses. The Board members are Harry J. Beatty, honorary president; C. C. DuMont Jr., Ulster Park, president; Robert Coy, Ardonia, first vice-president; Gordon Boice, Lake Katrine, second vice-president; Pratt Boice, Lake Katrine, treasurer; Joseph Cassano, New Paltz, manager; Edmund Bower, Hurley, secretary.

Other members are Robert Guzeswisch, city; Mrs. Helen Larsen, Stone Ridge; Arthur Heidecamp, city; Raphael Klein, city; Charles VanAlst, New Paltz; Richard Nace, Highland; Gregory VanDuser, Wallkill; Roderick Dressel, New Paltz; Hugh Simpson, Rosendale; Philip Davis, Kerhonkson; Edwood Brower, High Falls; Paul Lien, Wallkill; William Dichtel, Wallkill; Frank Van Dusen, Tilsen, and Frank Keller, Accord.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Wil Rose discovered his life's work in the middle 1950's while on a nine month trip documenting with film, tapes and artifacts the cultures of 22 countries in Europe and Asia for Los Angeles State College. He saw people in each country facing simple technical problems in agriculture, construction, medicine, etc. He also knew there were people in the United States who had the solutions. It was a matter of communication.

In 1958 Rose founded DATA (stands for Development and Technical Assistance) International which is dedicated to the precept that practical, usable information transmitted from qualified, concerned individual Americans to citizens in underdeveloped lands can alleviate human misery and create greater understanding among world's peoples.

Except for the administrative staff of a half-dozen people, DATA is comprised of volunteers, 2000 technical assistants in the U.S. and 10,000 Americans living overseas who report problems. In the past nine years over 7,000 problems and solutions have been processed through DATA. It is supported by contributions from private individuals, companies, organizations, and foundations. Wil Rose says, "I expose my faith, I don't impose it."

Churches Take Varied Stands on Viet Policy

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The churches are generating a swelling chorus in behalf of peace in Vietnam, many of them calling for a halt to the American bombing of North Vietnam.

Those urging an end to the bombardment range from Pope Paul VI to a growing succession of Protestant denominational conventions, in addition to the interdenominational National Council and World Council of Churches.

However, some communions have voiced support of U.S. policy in the war.

Others have appealed for renewed efforts at negotiations. Several have asked a stop by both sides to troop build-ups. Some have simply raised an anxious question mark.

It is a gnawing issue at meetings of governing bodies of the churches which assert a responsibility to reinforce the moral stance of the nation.

Subject for Debate

The subject also has caused sharp debate and keen friction in many religious bodies, including the withdrawal of at least one Jewish congregation from its national organization.

From several religious quarters, including the Methodist Council of Bishops, have come calls for a world summit meeting of religious leaders to join their influence in seeking to end the Southeast Asia conflict.

If it continues much longer, predicts the Rev. Dr. John C. Bennett, president of New York's Union Theological Seminary, "we shall have the greatest conflict between the churches and our government that we have ever had in time of war."

However, the war also produced sharp difference between churches, and in them. American Roman Catholic bishops have cited these differences, saying the U.S. position could be reasonably justified, but adding their "plea for peace."

The Big Southern Baptist Convention last month backed continued U.S. military efforts in Vietnam until "an honorable and just peace" could be established.

Earlier, the Standing Conference of Eastern Orthodox Bishops expressed support for American policy in the war, saying it "is directed against the spreading of totalitarian, atheistic ideology and is justified as such."

However, numerous other denominations, in conventions this spring and early summer, have criticized conduct of the war.

The United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. voiced "deep misgivings at the policy of military escalation" and said, "It appears that the immediate need is an alternative to the bombing of North Vietnam."

The American Baptist Convention urged the United States to "stop the bombing" and asked both sides to halt "the build-up of troops" in the south.

Appeals Court Won't Reverse Bribery Conviction of Mintz

By HOWARD C. CLARK
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State's highest tribunal has declared unconstitutional an old state law that permitted arrests on vagrancy charges if it could be shown that a person has no "visible means of support."

The decision was one of a score returned Friday by the Court of Appeals. The court also:

—Dismissed an appeal to overturn the bribery conviction of the late Hyman E. Mintz, a veteran Republican assemblyman from Sullivan County.

—Upheld the state ban against burning the U.S. flag.

—Threw out weighted-voting plans for the reapportionment of the legislatures of Saratoga and Washington counties.

—Held that the liquor industry may not employ the state's Fair Trade Law to escape a 1964 state law stipulating that liquor prices to wholesalers and retailers must be no higher in this state than the lowest prices of the same items elsewhere in the nation.

More Power in Schools

—Ruled that school officials may search a student's locker if they suspect he is secreting illegal materials in it.

—Ordered a new trial for a Manhattan pharmacist convicted on kidnapping and other charges. The druggist was accused of tricking three young women into taking sleeping pills, driving them to a motel and assaulting them sexually.

—Dismissed a $2.8-million suit brought by Saratoga Raceway in connection with a 10-day shutdown of the harness track in 1965.

On the vagrancy issue, the court ruled in favor of the appeal of Charles Fenster of New York City, who was arrested three times in 1964 on the vagrancy charge.

The law overreaches "the proper limitations of the police power," the majority said, noting that the only persons arrested and prosecuted as common-law vagrants now "are alcoholic derelicts and other unfortunates."

The statute, the court said in an opinion, has not been demonstrated to have any more usefulness "other than, perhaps, as a means of harassing, punishing or apprehending suspected criminals in an unconstitutional fashion."

The court said in an opinion that the action was one "of incitement, literally and figuratively 'incendiary' and as fraught with danger to the public peace as if he had stood on the street corner shouting epithets at passing pedestrians."

Sentence had been suspended on Street's conviction in New York City's Criminal Court.

The weighted voting plans in Saratoga and Washington counties were "of doubtful validity" and thus cast doubt on such plans in other counties, the court said in throwing out the proposed realignment of legislatures in the two counties.

The court gave the boards of supervisors of each county 60 days to draft and submit to the State Supreme Court a "constitutionally valid plan of reapportionment."

The rejected plan had given the representative of the larger population district voting power in proportion to the size of the population he represents.

In the Mintz appeal, the high court held that the effort to reverse the conviction should be rejected because "the entire criminal prosecution has abated by reason of his death."

Mintz died March 25, 1966, two days after being sentenced to a year's jail term. He had been convicted on a charge that he tried to bribe a New York City police officer to obtain information uncovered during a grand jury investigation into the issuance of a license to the Finger Lakes Race Track at Canandaigua.

The liquor decision reversed a lower-court finding that Macy's department store in New York City could not sell liquor at prices less than those set by distillers. A liquor distributor brought the suit against the department store.

Drugs in Locker

In the school case, the high court overturned the ruling of a lower court that the warrant authorizing the locker search at Mount Vernon High School was defectively drawn and, therefore, the search was unlawful.

Four marijuana cigarettes had been found in the locker.

The Court of Appeals held that such a search was permissible regardless of the validity of the warrant. "It is the affirmative obligation of the school authorities to investigate any charge that a student is using or possessing narcotics and to take appropriate steps," the court said.

Missouri Synod Of Lutherans Opens Meeting

NEW YORK (AP) — Representatives of the 2.8-million member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod have opened their week-long biennial convention as new anxieties stir in the denomination.

One question that seemed likely to divide the delegates was whether the church should speak out on the war in Vietnam, a move advocated by some of the younger liberals in the denomination.

As the convention opened Friday, it was expected that a resolution calling for a halt to the bombing of North Vietnam would be brought to the floor sometime next week.

There were also indications that such a move would be strongly opposed.

The Rev. Dr. Oliver R. Harms, president of the Missouri Synod, told newsmen: "We are not about to tell President Johnson what to do in any given instance. We believe he will do the honorable thing under God. As dutiful citizens, we hold that our officials in government know more about what to do than we. We place our trust in our elected officials."

The arrival of the plane at Kaariba, Rhodesia, was the first visible evidence from the fighting, on which previous reports had come primarily from foreign capitals.

Congolese Ambassador Theodore Idzumbur told the U.N. Security Council that Tshombe and aides in Spain were trying to carry out a plot of sabotage, provocation of mutinies in the Congolese army and elimination of President Joseph D. Mobutu.

Tshombe was kidnapped and flown to Algeria June 30 and authorities are considering a request for his extradition to the Congo, which sentenced him to death for treason while he was living in exile in Spain.

Diplomats at the United Nations predicted if Tshombe is returned to the Congo and executed, the former Belgian colony's internal troubles would mushroom.

War Rages In Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Civil war raged in Nigeria today between soldiers of the breakaway eastern region of Biafra and federal government troops ordered to invade the eastern region and capture Gov. C.O. Ojukwu.

The federal government said the rebel forces had suffered heavy casualties. The Biafrans claimed to have killed at least 51 Nigerian officers and to have destroyed a company of soldiers.

Earlier, Radio Biafra said Biafran troops had repulsed a "full frontal assault" by Nigerian troops led by white mercenaries. It gave no details on the alleged mercenaries.

Lagos Radio said rebel troops opened fire first early Thursday and charged that Ojukwu had "unleashed terrorist activities in Lagos and other parts of Nigeria" after declaring its independence from the federal government May 30.

The Biafrans claimed from their capital of Enugu, 300 miles east of Lagos, that their forces had captured the North Nigerian town of Okpo, five miles above their border.

The federal announcement claimed capture of the towns of Obudu, in the Ogoja area near the Cameroon border, and Obolo, near Nsukka, location of the eastern region's one university.

Lt. Col. Yakubu Gowon, head of Nigeria's military regime, ordered the invasion of the 30,000-square-mile eastern region, whose 14 million people seceded after months of discord marked by bloodshed in coup and riot.

Gowon called the secession an act of rebellion and imposed economic sanctions in an effort to force the region to rejoin the central government. The conflict has cut sharply into Nigerian exports of oil from developing eastern fields.

American officials here said all Americans in the Nsukka area and other areas north of Enugu have been evacuated, either out of the territory claimed by Biafra or to Enugu.

Operators of two vehicles escaped serious injury and both were cited by State Trooper Craig Brenner after a collision on Old Kings Highway three miles south of Route 212.

Trooper Cooper said Kenneth Burgess, 33, of Wyncop Road, Hurley, was driving north, and Ronald Talmadge, 33, of 50 East Bridge Street, Saugerties, was going south, when the vehicles collided.

According to troopers, the Talmadge car crossed into the northbound lane. Talmadge was taken to Kingston Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance.

He was cited by Trooper Brenner for driving while intoxicated. Burgess was summoned for driving an unregistered motor vehicle, Cooper said.

Frank J. Pluta, 34, of 77 Alda Drive, Poughkeepsie, was cited this morning by Highland State Police for driving while intoxicated after his car was involved in an accident on Route 44-55, Town of Lloyd. Trooper Brian O'Connor said Pluta was driving north and negotiating a curve when the car went off the right side, hit rocks, rolled over and came to stop on the pavement.

Trooper George Rebban summoned Pluta to appear before Justice of the Peace Lewis DiStasi, Town of Lloyd, to face the drunken driving charge. He was released without bail pending a hearing. The mishap occurred at 2:45 a. m. just west of the Mid-Hudson Bridge.

Pluta was taken to Vassar Hospital and treated for facial lacerations, authorities said.

Killed by Truck

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — William Flores, 8, was killed Friday when struck by a tractor-trailer truck after he darted away from some playmates and ran into a street.

Boy, 9, Killed In Cycle Mishap

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) — Daniel Callaro, 9, was killed Friday when the motorcycle on which he was riding and an automobile collided at Route 90 and Turtletown Road in Aurelius, four miles west of here.

State Police said he was riding on the cycle driven by his father, David, who was not injured seriously.

The building, which is in the South Mall complex south of the State Capitol, was honeycombed with scaffolding and wooden forms to hold concrete. They blazed quickly and sent off a dazzling display of embers through the upper seven floors most heavily involved in fire.

Early today, firemen were still pouring water on the parts of the 150-foot high structure that could be reached with conventional fire-fighting equipment.

Originally, firemen had entered the building, but were ordered out by Deputy Chief Augustus J. Brophy when it was feared a crane used to haul building material to the top of the structure would collapse.

There will be a board meeting of the Sisterhood, Wednesday evening, at 8 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schneider, Grandview Avenue.

The firm said Friday it has recalled 325 late production 1966 and 5,975 early model 1967 Plymouth Belvedere and Dodge Coronet and Charger cars with the disc brakes.

Chrysler also ordered back 7,407 Plymouth Barracuda and Dodge Dart 1967 two-door hardtops with rear center seat belts. The firm ordered its dealers to install a part that would protect the seat belt from possibly being cut by a shelf panel brace in a severe collision.

Albany Inferno Perils Future Of Mall Site

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A fire visible for miles ripped through the upper floors of the partially completed main tower of the state's South Mall office building overnight.

The spectacular fire left in doubt the future of the building — a keystone in Gov. Rockefeller's plan to reshape this Capital City's state office building concept.

As firemen stood by, virtually helpless because the height of the building, flames that had broken out on seventh floor ate their way swiftly through construction scaffolding and wooden forms for concrete to the last level under construction at the 14th floor.

As envisioned by Rockefeller and state planners the building would eventually soar 43 stories above Albany's skyline. The tremendous heat generated by the roaring flames indicated studies would be required before construction continued, officials said.

The building, which is in the South Mall complex south of the State Capitol, was honeycombed with scaffolding and wooden forms to hold concrete. They blazed quickly and sent off a dazzling display of embers through the upper seven floors most heavily involved in fire.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 8, 1967

NOW IT'S FOLLOW THROUGH

Thirty school systems across the country have been selected by the U.S. Office of Education to develop a "Follow Through" program for deprived children who have graduated from the Head Start pre-school program. The planning phase began July 1. The program begins Sept. 5 and continues until June 15, or school closings, in 1968.

Follow Through is to identify children who still have educational difficulties after participating in Head Start and to develop a program to meet their needs. It will also try to measure the effect of the pre-school program by including eight out of ten children with Head Start experience and two out of ten without.

Improvement of the youngsters' reading, language and writing skills will be emphasized. Also, field trips to museums and to classrooms in other schools will be undertaken. The staffs will include non-professional teaching aides, a school social worker and psychologist, and parent helpers who coordinate the program with community activities and inform other parents about it.

Follow Through comes between Head Start and kindergarten. It would seem that the educators are working toward school beginning at age three or four and continuing on, with Head Start and Follow Through adding two new years to the school system as we know it now. It's going to be a long pull for the hapless children.

FIVE-YEAR CENSUS

A Washington conference on social statistics urges a complete national census every five years. The world is moving at too fast a pace, so the social statisticians say, to wait ten years for the head count now decreed by Congress.

Support for this thesis is seen in the number of cities and counties that have requested and obtained special enumerations of their growth in recent years. They want to support their claims to larger populations because scores of kinds of Federal and state aid are allocated according to the census figures. And, of course, representation in Congress, state legislatures and even local government is based on them.

We are old-fashioned. A count of the nation every ten years is soon enough. A five-year census would have census takers in our hair almost uninterruptedly. Let fast-growing cities and counties continue to ask and get special counts as their populations will stand for them. Too much of the country is either standing still or advances slowly to be bothered.

A five-year count is for California and Florida and Arizona and the like. The rest of us can wait 10 years to learn we are not crowding each other.

CITIES' COMPLAINTS

People complain about the Federal Government impinging on local rights, but they don't think of how the Government is invited to do so. Take, for example, the way the president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit, complain of the way the Government is short-changing the cities.

Speaking at the annual meeting in Honolulu, Cavanagh complained that Congress killed the rent subsidy program and sharply reduced funds for the model cities project. By contrast, he said that in three years the nation will have spent 13 times more on the space program than for all the programs administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Also, that $30 billion has been spent on the interstate highway program but only $130 million on urban transit. And $1.2 billion has been earmarked to build two supersonic airplanes while only $75 million is annually allocated for airports.

Cavanagh and other like minded mayors forget that there are national goals for which the Federal Government is primarily responsible, and for which it spends Federal funds for the good of the nation as a whole; and cities are responsible for local matters, for which they must raise the money. When a foreign war and a war on poverty are going on at the same time, the cities should search their own means for things they want to accomplish, not add to the burden the nation must shoulder.

Crying to the Federal Government is the quickest way to get Federal intervention in local affairs.

Charles F. Luce, Undersecretary of the Interior, challenged the coal industry to do more to reduce air pollution. Clean coal is the goal of the department, a goal that would reduce air pollution immensely.

When Soviet Premier Aleksei Kosygin told the United Nations no country has a right to expand its borders by military action in the twentieth century, did he forget Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and parts of Romania? Or does he mean to free these nations the Soviet Union absorbed after World War II?

Discovery by Israeli troops of quantities of Chinese-made arms in the Gaza Strip suggested that the Chinese had armed the so-called Palestine Liberation Army. Instead of liberating them, the arms led to the destruction of many of them.

GOP Moderates Fear Being Outmaneuvered

WASHINGTON — Republican Governors have pined over various political realities with their tentative agreement to bring uncommitted delegations to the national convention next year.

Though the paper is thin, it evoked broad smiles from the normally phlegmatic national chairman, Ray Bliss. Bliss is a true believer in organization and his heart's desire is to pound the opening gavel before a convention unhampered by the advance infighting of the recent past.

Moderate Governors who want to nominate Gov. Nelson Rockefeller had to yield. Their heavy persuasions in three private meetings at Jackson Hole last week failed to yield them one word of encouragement. At one point it seemed that 10 Governors were ready to go with the New Yorker but he only reiterated his commitment to Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

As they are not hostile to Romney, they agreed to subdue their inclinations with one exception. Gov. Spiro Agnew of Maryland repeated to a press conference that Rockefeller would make the best President, and so he proposed to stick with him.

Asked if this would not make him vulnerable in a state which gave George Wallace of Alabama a big primary vote in 1964, Agnew said the harm to him would be negligible compared to the advantage to the country if Rockefeller were nominated and elected. Incidentally, Maryland's politicians have prudently repealed the primary law which so embarrassed them before.

Moderates still fear that they will be outmaneuvered in the counties by adherents of Richard Nixon, Barry Goldwater's choice, or Gov. Ronald Reagan of California. They like to think that the two conservative heroes will cut each other up in the process. Those who are already having trouble with the extreme right in their states would especially welcome that development.

There was some grumbling over Bliss' attitude. The chairman emerged from Ohio politics where the record proves that the Republican label makes all candidates equal in quality and attracts ample campaign funds.

For Bliss it must be said that the party came back in 1966 under his ministrations and that he has never been accused of prejudice. He has also preached the doctrine that the Republicans must win the cities with their wide spectrum of voters. Under his direction the committee published an analysis of the 1964 disaster which is a classic of reporting.

One factor inhibiting a Presidential consensus by Governors is the growing number of Vice-Presidential hopefuls. Another is the inexperience of most of them. They hesitate because they simply don't know the ropes and are too busy at their jobs to study national considerations.

They shied from second-guessing President Johnson on Vietnam at last week's meetings, sensibly saddling him with responsibility for that conflict. Their nominee will have to make the running on Vietnam, whoever he may be, and the party will be stuck with it.

There is less defeatism this year than last, which is natural considering 1967 gains and no attempts to say that defeating Johnson will be easy. But there is some real hope, too.

United Nations Works When Members Want It to Work

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—After weeks of getting ready the United Nations this week faced its showdown on the Arab-Israeli tension and the result was zero.

That there was a lot of wheeling and perhaps dealing, with the various members by the United States on one side and the Soviet Union on the other can be taken for granted.

But, like President Johnson's meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, no outsider knows what went on behind the scenes. All that is known is that when the test came, neither side had enough votes to win.

Thus once again the United Nations looks ineffective. By now this is an old story.

But, despite all the yelping and handwringing about the condition of the international organization, it has been clear from the beginning that on any given problem the United Nations can only be as strong as its members want it to be.

That reality was there before there was a United Nations—in the days of its creation in 1945 when the big powers insisted upon the right to veto any action the other members of the Security Council thought right and just.

Basic distrust and self-interest were part of the organization from the start. The Soviets have been the greatest practitioner of the veto.

Ridiculous Result

Sometimes this has had a ri-

dulous result, as in 1950

when the council voted to stop the aggression of North

Korea against South Korea.

Moscow could have, and would have, prevented this action, if it had been present at rotating time. But it wasn't.

It happened to be deliberately absent, putting on a sulking

act because Red China wasn't given U.N. membership.

And there was the time three years ago that the Soviet Union and France deadlocked the General Assembly when they refused to pay their peacekeeping dues, arguing that only the council, not the assembly, could determine such dues.

And this year there was the

never-to-be-forgotten fiasco when the U.N. peacekeeping force was yanked out of Egypt in the midst of the Arab-Israeli crisis and just before the war began.

For 10 years the force, by permission of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, had been stationed inside Egypt

along the border with Israel.

The latter would not allow

U.N. troops inside Israel.

That Palled Them Out

As Nasser neared the peak of his war buildup, he told

U.N. Secretary General U

Thant to pull his peacekeepers out immediately. And Thant did. So the U.N. troops, which had been in Egypt a decade, weren't there when needed most.

To recapture the goodwill of the Arabs, who felt let down because Moscow did not step in to save them from a beating by Israel, Moscow sent

Kosygin to the General Assembly to lead the way for the Arabs against Israel.

That was weeks ago and the Soviets had plenty of time to line up support among the 122

member nations. Moscow

wanted Israel condemned as an aggressor and ordered to withdraw from the Arab territory it took in the war.

In the General Assembly vote

this was defeated. But so was a two-way Latin American proposal, backed by the United States, calling for Israeli withdrawal but also demanding that the Arab states renounce their belligerency towards Israel. A number of other resolutions were also knocked down.

But the assembly did approve, 9 to 0, a resolution calling Israel's unification of Jerusalem invalid.

Back to Council

Now the argument goes back to the Security Council whose failure in the first place to reach any solutions had prompted the Soviets to take the problem to the General Assembly.

The one lesson that emerges from all this has always been.

The United Nations is a good meeting place for the nations of the world. Sometimes it works, sometimes it doesn't.

It works when it suits the interests of the members to make it work. It's anything but an ideal organization. But it's the only one the world has.

It may stagger along indefinitely or, in the end, fall on its face, as the League of Nations did.

Willi told me about his ses-

of U. S. economic competi-

American oil companies,

American automobile com-

their Volkswagens give them

Since emotions can't be

The Word Cornell

Editor, The Freeman:

Historic Cornell Park located at the southern entrance of our city which for half a century has served

Kingstonians as a magnificent recreational area is now standing vacant. Residents in the area now reminisce about the hours spent attending the Saturday night band concerts and enjoying the splendid park equipment.

All this park equipment is gone now as there are presently only four small swings in Cornell Park. Parts of the Park now look like a jungle,

the American flag is not present at the Veterans Memorial and the wading pool is not in use. Yet no official word has been received from the mayor, superintendent of recreation or the recreation commission. The Raymond and May report of 1962 (professional planning report)

recommended that Cornell

Park be expanded in regard to equipment and activity

mentioning the fact that it is one of the most popular spots and that Kingston is many acres short of the necessary recreational acreage.

The Cornell Building was demolished, Cornell Fire Station closed and now Cornell

Park is abandoned. Does

The Average Lawbreaker: He's Only 15

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
(Second in a Series)

PEORIA, ILL. (NEA)—The popular conception of the common criminal is grossly inaccurate. Unshaven? Seamy-faced? Bulky and belligerent? Chuck most of the adjectives.

The only one that fits is "belligerent."

The average lawbreaker today doesn't shave at all. His face is smooth, not seamy and he hasn't had time to grow much bulk. He is, after all, only 15 years old.

He is a kid named Gary B who sits nervously on an oak bench in a Peoria recreation center. He is dressed in stove-pipe trousers and a T-shirt. His hair hangs limply over his ears. He stares at his feet. His eyes are red and his hands dirty.

He is a burglar. He has been arrested twice. He doesn't care.

"Why do you do it?"

A shrug.

"Where are your parents?"

A laugh.

"Do you know you're headed for serious trouble?"

A yawn.

Gary B is symbolic of this nation's juvenile delinquent miseries. Last year kids like him accounted for nearly 25 per cent of all law enforcement arrests. Peoria Police alone made 5,296 such arrests (under 17 years old) . . . some for theft, arson and you name it. Thirty-four were detained for narcotic misdeeds, 213 for burglary, three for murder.

Says juvenile detective Frank Fosco: "Kids under 17 commit every well-known crime in this town and some others, like glue sniffing, that aren't well-known. It's tragic. I'd say that over 70 per cent of all Peoria crimes involve juveniles."

That guess, while shocking is not rare. Peoria kids are neither worse nor better than those in other cities. According to a congressional report by Chicago Congressman Roman C. Pucinski, juvenile crime in the nation has increased to a level where it now accounts for an annual public loss of $4 billion.

Pucinski's facts are stupefying. Among them:

• Considering all ages, from the cradle to the grave, the most frequently arrested lawbreakers in the United States today are 15-year-old boys.

Eighty-eight per cent of all car thefts in the country are committed by persons under the age of 25. Thirty-five per cent of all car thefts are by persons under 18.

Youngsters between 11 and 16 make up only 13 per cent of the U.S. population but commit over half of all lawbreaking property offenses.

And, stiff though the statistics are, the probability is they will get stiffer. Over a quarter of the U.S. population is under 10 years old and police are worried about tomorrow.

"I can't speak for other cities," says a Peoria policeman, "but I look for juvenile crime to get worse and worse in this area. Why? Because there's almost nothing the police can do about it. Society won't let us treat the kids as crooks."

The man's complaint is in obvious reference to the strict legal limitations imposed in juvenile crime work. Police say such limitations are asinine. They say the laws make a 17-year-old robber a "dirty thug" but a 16-year-old robber a "misguided boy."

"Until recent years," says detective Fosco, "we weren't even allowed to fingerprint or photograph a juvenile suspect. And things aren't much better now. We're told it's all for the good of the accused. Well, what about the good of the victims?"

Local police are especially disgruntled over the functioning of the juvenile courts. "We arrest somebody and for what? The judges just turn the kids loose. Thus of 5,296 juvenile arrests here last year, police bothered sending only 243 to trial."

And even when courts convict, they do not placate police bitterness. Under Illinois law, juveniles are not charged with specific crimes, only delinquency in general. Even suspected murderers are but sent away to state correctional schools and the average stay in one of the institutions is four or five months.

Therefore, the police problem is apparent. Regardless of their diligence they can only clear delinquents off the streets for a few months at best . . . and then only if they are fortunate, get through the red tape and get a conviction.

To compound the woe, at least in Peoria, the kids take advantage of the situation. They feel they're untouchable. Gripes a disgruntled cop: "They're laughing at us."

Gary B, for one, is certainly laughing.

"I've been arrested twice," he says, "but nothing ever happened. The cops knew I stole the stuff. But nothing happened. They just questioned me and let me go."

"What did you steal?"

"Some junk."

"Did you give it back?"

"Hell, no."

Bary B chuckles at his recollections. He lights a cigarette. He stole the pack, he says. Finally in a moment of generosity, he admits he almost feels sorry for the police. "Until I'm 17," he concludes, "I can get away with murder."

(Next: Problems in the Ghetto).

Word's Origin

The word "plumber" means "lead worker." It is derived from the Latin "plumbum" for lead. Nearly all early sinks had lead pipes, thus the name plumber arose.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY is Peoria's—and the nation's—No. 1 crime problem. Lt. H. Chase Gillespie of the Peoria Police juvenile division interviews a youngster.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews Wanning, Saugerties and Blue Hill, Me., announced the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Lee, to Michael Saunders Sommer, Summerville, S. C., at a reception Saturday, July 1.

Miss Wanning, a graduate of the Commonwealth School, Boston, Mass., is currently a student at the University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Sommer, a member of Zeta Psi fraternity, is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. He will start work at the Continental Bank, Pa., in September.

An August wedding is planned.

Kristine V. Wolsen Weds D. R. Mowers

Miss Kristine Victoria Wolsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wolsen, RD 3, Box 214, Saugerties, became the bride of Donald Ray Mowers, son of Mrs. Olga Mowers, Jefferson, and the late Fred Mowers, Saturday, June 10, at Atonement Lutheran Church, Saugerties.

The Rev. Walter Cowen, pastor, officiated at the ceremony. Miss Mildred Gippert, organist, played traditional musical selections. The altar was decorated with vases of flowers and white satin bows designated the pews of the parents.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a chapel length gown of silk organza and lace. The fitted bodice was styled with a sabrina neckline, empire waist and long pointed sleeves. Seed pearls and sequins accented the neckline. A controlled lace panel styled the tiered bouffant skirt. Ruffles at the back of the skirt climaxed in a chapel train. Her fingertip length silk illusion veil was fastened to a floral headpiece. She carried a circular bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Carol Wolsen, Saugerties, was maid of honor for her sister. Attendants were Mrs. Lynda Pfeleegor, Hilton, sister of the bride, and Miss Carol Stark, Jefferson, sister of the bridegroom.

The maid of honor wore a short turquoise peau de soie gown, slightly flared, with underlay and inverted pleat at the center front. Over the gown was a short jacket of turquoise lace. Her headpiece was made of tulle attached to a bow which was the same color as her gown. She carried a colonial bouquet of multi-colored carnations.

The attendants were attired in aqua gowns, styled identically to that of the maid of honor and were fashioned and made by the maid of honor.

John Stark, Jefferson, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Robert L. Pfeleegor, Jr., Hilton, brother-in-law of the bride, and Edwin Gilbert, Jr., Jefferson.

After the wedding a reception for 92 guests was held at Mt. Marion Inn.

For her wedding trip to the Concord, Kiamesha Lake, the bride chose a dress of white lace on yellow taffeta backing, with yellow shoes and white accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow baby roses.

The bride, a graduate of Saugerties Central High School and State University College at Oneonta, will teach first grade in September at Jefferson.

Her husband, an alumnus of Jefferson Central High School, attended Royal Barber School, Schenectady, and is manager of the family farm, Jefferson.

Mr. and Mrs. Mowers will reside in a mobile home, RD 1, Moxley Road, Jefferson.

14th Day Camp Season Opens

This summer marks the 14th consecutive year of operation for the summer day camp run by the Kingston Jewish Community Center.

From its modest beginnings in 1954 with a handful of children to the present camp on the 130-acre site on Hurley Mountain, the camp and its facilities have grown to meet the needs of a growing community.

In the early years, lacking facilities of its own, the camp utilized rented quarters at Spring Lake in 1954 and 1955. The success of the camp and increased enrollment necessitated a move to a larger area and 1956 through 1958, the camp operated from the property of the Svirsky Hotel in Port Jervis. The 1959 and 1960 seasons were at larger quarters at Turkey Point off Route 32 in the Town of Saugerties.

It soon became apparent, however, that in order to keep pace with its steady growth and the community requirements an even larger tract of land was necessary. In 1961 the present site, offering hills, forests and streams, was purchased.

To meet camping requirements a large, modern filtered swimming pool was constructed as well as bath house, pavilion and ball fields. Tents served as temporary quarters and an old farmhouse was pressed into service as first aid station and general administrative office.

Each succeeding year saw an increase in facilities. Bunkhouses replaced the tents and an office building replaced the farmhouse. Patios were added around the pool. A pond was enlarged to form a small lake which was stocked with fish. A basketball court was constructed and other sports facilities were improved.

At the present time the camp, operated on a non-sectarian basis, includes children from nursery school age to teenagers and can accommodate 200 campers for its eight-week registration.

Ronald Cole, camp director and Dean Bullock, assistant, along with carefully selected and trained counselors operate a varied program. Most of the counselors are college students with previous counseling and camping experience.

Activities include softball, basketball, volleyball, badminton and archery. Special swimming classes, arts and crafts, nature trails, hiking and many other activities are included in the program.

This year a new teenage group with a special program keyed to their interests. Many trips and events are planned with the highlight being a visit to Expo 67 in Montreal. One such trip is planned this month with another slated for August.

Children are transported to the camp and returned by special buses which are routed throughout the Kingston area stopping at key pick up and delivery points.

The camp grounds are used by adult members of the Jewish Community Center when day camp is not in session. On Saturdays and Sundays the grounds are open to all members for swimming and picnicking.

Just recently construction of an additional new swimming pool was completed, enabling members to use certain areas on a daily basis without interfering with day camp activities.

Future plans call for development of a winter program to include tobogganing and skiing as well as to constantly enlarge and improve its summer facilities—the better to serve the center's ever increasing membership.

$4.7 Million Grant

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $4.7-million grant to help New York City combat narcotics addiction has been approved by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The grant, to cover an 18-month period, is to be administered by the city's coordinator of addiction programs. The money will provide treatment for addicts and for their reentry into society, the OEO said today.

Also, the agency said, parents and employers will be asked to cooperate in efforts to prevent a recurrence of addiction.

To Hanoi Cause

Soviet, Peking Provide Great Help

BY FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Communist China has supplied North Vietnam more than 750,000 small arms, many of which have been shipped on to Communist forces fighting in South Vietnam, U. S. sources report.

The Soviets have furnished the North Vietnamese more than 10,000 artillery pieces, mortars and other heavy weapons.

Indicate Scope

These figures, gathered from a variety of U. S. government sources, indicate the scope of Soviet and Red Chinese aid to North Vietnam, the main supplier of the Communist Viet Cong as well as North Vietnamese regulars in South Vietnam. The volume of cargo unloaded by Soviet ships at Haiphong, North Vietnam's chief port, reached a record level of more than 200,000 tons in the first three months of this year.

U. S. experts calculate that Soviet military aid to North Vietnam totaled close to $1.5 billion from 1955 through last year. Chinese military assistance to North Vietnam came to nearly $200 million through 1966.

Economic aid to North Vietnam from all Communist sources reached $1.5 billion during this period. About half came from Moscow, a little less than half came from China and some 10 per cent from Red nations of eastern Europe.

The war in Vietnam currently is costing the United States about $25 billion a year.

The current assessment by knowledgeable U. S. officials is that even without help from the Soviet Union or China, North Vietnam could continue the war, but its effort would be much less effective. This assessment also covers action in Laos.

U. S. experts believe shutting off the port of Haiphong would magnify North Vietnamese problems and drain material and human resources.

But if the Soviets and Chinese kept up basic support in the face of a port closure, American analysts are convinced North Vietnam could continue the present degree of operations in both South Vietnam and Laos. The Soviets, it was said, could use south Chinese ports, shifting to rail transportation there, instead of sending goods into Haiphong as now. Crude oil could be shipped to North Vietnam by train, and refined products transported to North Vietnam by rail. This supposes the Chinese would permit such action. Although the Soviets and Chinese are bitter foes politically, indications are the Chinese are not interfering with present Soviet overland shipments through China to North Vietnam.

China is providing most of the small arms, ammunition, antiaircraft artillery, some heavy weapons and some trucks to North Vietnam, U. S. experts say. Moscow is furnishing virtually all of the petroleum supplies to North Vietnam, with some small amounts from Romania. The Soviet Union also is sending North Vietnam most of its radar, surface-to-air missiles, MIG jet fighters, heavy weapons and some of its trucks.

More than 95 per cent of the small arms, artillery and ammunition enters North Vietnam by rail—which makes vitally important the two main railroad lines connecting Hanoi with China.

About 90 per cent of the petroleum supplies are carried to North Vietnam by sea. All of the trucks, essential to moving heavy military cargoes toward South Vietnam, also arrive in North Vietnam by sea.

Skyrocketing Viet Costs Seen in 1968

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate-House Economic Committee says U. S. spending in Vietnam the next 12 months likely will outstrip administration estimates and could bring on a second year of tight money on the homefront.

The congressional study panel blamed the administration for causing fiscal 1967's money shortages and soaring interest rates by badly underestimating war costs.

"The same dreary cycle of events threatens again," said the committee in a report Thursday.

"Total spending on the war in Vietnam during the fiscal year just ending will double the administration's original estimates," said the committee. "And there are already signs that actual spending on the war in the upcoming fiscal year may appreciably outrun first estimates."

The committee predicted a possible $4 billion to $6 billion jump in war costs in fiscal 1968 that began July 1 over administration estimates of $21.8 billion. The administration originally calculated fiscal 1967 Vietnam costs at $10.6 billion. That figure was hiked to $19.9 billion last January and administration officials have said the total could reach $20.4 billion when all bills are in.

The committee said because Congress wasn't given more accurate estimates, it was unable to consider in the true light the need for a tax increase or federal spending cutback to keep the economy on an even keel.

The panel said the President should take adequate economic measures to compensate for increased military spending.

President Johnson's bid for a six per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes has been described by administration officials as a means to pay for the war while avoiding inflation and the economic squeeze of the past 12 months.

Children's Home Staff Member

Lawrence B. Sievers, executive director of the Children's Home of Kingston, has announced the appointment of James A. Hanson as director of group living. In making the announcement Sievers said, "we feel most fortunate in having Hanson join our staff, as there is an extreme shortage of qualified social workers in the country and I know that

Local Hospitals Get Cancer Gift

The Ulster County Tumor Foundation, Inc., an organization formed some 20 years ago to provide funds for cancer care for middle income persons, is being disbanded.

William F. Edelmut, former mayor of Kingston, said that the organization has outlived its usefulness with the advent of Medicare.

Edelmut said the organization was originally formed because it was felt that the poor had many sources of revenue available to them, both governmental and private while the rich could finance their own hospital bills. A middle income person was often caught short when serious illness such as cancer struck, he pointed out.

Through the years the foundation helped these middle income persons. With the advent of Medicare it was felt that they were now covered by the federal programs and were no longer in need of the help provided by the Ulster County Tumor Clinic Foundation, Inc.

According to Edelmut, almost $16,000 had accumulated in bank deposits in recent years. It was felt the money could be put to good use by donating it to the two hospitals in the area, Benedictine and Kingston Hospital. It was emphasized that the money be used for research and treatment of cancer. The hospitals received an equal share of the estimated $16,000 gift.

Deadline Near On GI Housing

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you are a World War II veteran and haven't used your GI housing loan privilege—better act quickly.

The privilege expires July 25. A Veterans Administration spokesman said today that any World War II vet whose loan has not been processed—and guaranteed—by July 25 will no longer be eligible to get the government-insured loan.

He said a loan could be processed in a week at the earliest. The cut-off does not apply to Korean War vets or those considered post-Korea veterans such as the Vietnam GIs.

The expiration date for Korean vets is Jan. 31, 1975. There's no expiration date for post-Korea vets.

State Offers Seaway Charts For Boaters

Area Scouts Set New Mexico Trip

Thirteen lucky Boy Scouts from the Rip Van Winkle Council will leave by train July 16 for the Philmont Scout Ranch and Explorer Base near Cimarron, N. M.

Before arriving at the 13,722-acre ranch the boys will have the opportunity to view the sights of Chicago, Denver, Colorado Springs and Pike's Peak. The trip will take the Scouts, all in full uniform, through 15 states.

They are scheduled to arrive at the ranch July 19 and return home on Aug. 2.

Adult leader is Roy Sears, advisor of Post 70 in Highland. Scouts include Steven Gadaleto, leader of Patrol 1, Robert Halstead, Steven Sossei, Henry Bisordi and John Eberhardt. Patrol 2 is led by Robert Rhodes and includes Charles Scott, Gary Anderson, Charles Bryden and Paul Piastro. All of the boys are in the 14-17 year old age group.

While at the ranch they will camp out, learn weapons safety on the rifle range and practice scout lore in the scenic Southwest.

Bid Accepted For Road Signs

J. Burch McMorran, State Superintendent of Public Works, announced receipt of a low bid of $108,152.25 from Interstate Sign Erectors, Albany, for furnishing and installing mile-point markers along 871 miles of state highways in Columbia, Dutchess, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Ulster and Westchester Counties, comprising District Eight of the State Department of Public Works. Three bids were received.

The markers will be numbered for computer use to pinpoint locations for accident reports, highway engineering, research, and other purposes.

The national finals were held at Detroit, Mich. Richard Palermo, a senior at Highland High School and Charles Hansen, a junior at Rondout Valley High School and their instructor, Rudolph W. Brodsky of the BOCES staff, were the members of the award-winning team. They went to Detroit to participate in a three-day schedule of events which included a reception, motorcade to the fairgrounds, sight-seeing tours, luncheons and an awards banquet at the Whittier Hotel.

As a result of their participation in the vocational-automotive classification, the team received watches, jackets, T-shirts, a tool box containing the actual materials used in the contest, and a certificate signed by national managers representing Chrysler Motors Corporation.

Palermo and Hansen both proved to be outstanding in their abilities to begin with an automobile having "planted" malfunctions by getting the contest car running again with speed and accuracy.

Brodsky, teacher of auto mechanics at the BOCES vocational school at New Paltz, Michael Aronica, director of the vocational education program, and members of the board of education of BOCES, indicated their gratification in the winning performances by their students in these local and national contests.

Ballet Opens Spa Season

By EARL ARONSON
SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — George Balanchine brought his glittering new ballet, "Jewels," to the Saratoga Springs Performing Arts Center Friday night to open the summer season for the New York City Ballet.

Jewels, which depicts the dancers as different precious stones, is performed in three acts—Emeralds, Rubys and Diamonds. Traditional classic forms are spiced with a breezy, almost comic, modern manner. About 3,500 attended the performance, leaving many empty seats in the 5,100-seat amphitheater. Many at the opening performance were in formal dress. As choreographed by Balanchine, Emeralds emerged in the classical form with the dancing of Violette Verdy, Conrad Ludlo, Miami Paul and Francisco Moncion. The women, in light green tutus and dark-green bodices liberally sprinkled with simulated jewels, danced delicately to the romantic music of Gabriel Faure.

The serenity gave way to the bouncy music of Igor Stravinsky in Rubys. The audience seemed to enjoy the jazzy movements of the dancers whose steps hinted of rock and roll and whose movements were exaggerated. Edward Villella and his impish, gracefully partner, Patricia McBride, were the brightest stars in a sprightly cast that also featured Patricia Neary.

The music of Peter I. Tschai-kovsky returned the ballet to the classical forms in Diamonds as Susanne Farrell and Jacques D'Amboise danced royally in white costumes against a background of blue.

Balanchine, co-director of the New York City Ballet, said Jewels was inspired by the beauty of precious gems. It was conceived 15 years ago with the meeting of M. Claude Arpels, a jewelry designer.

PLANNING COMMITTEE for a luncheon and swim party which will be given at the home of Mrs. Mel Kelman, Hillside Terrace, Kingston, today at 12:30 p. m. includes (l-r) Mrs. Murray Greene, Mrs. Joseph Horowitz, Mrs. Irving Scher, Mrs. Harris Gally and Mrs. Kelman. In charge of reservations are Mrs. Reuben Wissok and Mrs. Seymour Semilof. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Ulster Town Votes Land for Expansion

Rapidly growing Town of Ulster took steps Thursday night at the monthly Town Board meeting to make provision for the future construction of a new town garage and town building. The Town Board authorized Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz to contract with Joseph Lohmaier for the purchase of a tract of land of over five acres as a site for future construction.

Looking to the future, the tract of land on Route 209 in the vicinity of IBM at Mulvin Drive opposite the new Lake Katrine School, will be the site for the new town garage and future town hall. The present town garage near Ulster Hose No. 5, firehouse, is inadequate to house the town machinery, much of which must be left exposed to the elements.

Bids for the Ulster Water District water treatment plant and pump station were received and opened and were referred to J. Kenneth Fraser, town engineer, for study. Contracts will be awarded to the low bidder within 10 days after the bids have been reviewed. Three bids were received for General Construction from Bruno Trimpi of Schenectady; Hurley Sand and Gravel Company of Kingston and Lane New York Company. Four bids for electrical work were received from Glenn Electrical Company, Joe E. O'Connor, ERA Electrical Company and Lane New York Company. Two plumbing bids were received from R. J. Welch & Company and Lane of New York Company.

There was no opposition expressed at a public hearing prior to the regular board meeting on the application of Park Cable Company to extend TV service to the town. The board granted the right to go ahead with the extension of the service.

A contract for 10 years was renewed with Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. for a walk-way between Forest Glen Park and Sunset Park. The agreement given to the town for $1 also contains a clause for connection and maintenance of water service through the walkway between the two parks.

The board also voted to again petition the State Traffic and Control Commission at Albany for another traffic light on Albany Avenue Extension to control the heavy traffic which at times creates a dangerous condition.

3 Youths Fined On Theft Count

Fines of $25 were paid by each of the accused youths, who were identified as Bert Clayton Baxter, 20, and James Leroy McCombs, 17, both of Cragmoor, and Richard Allen McElrath, 20, of New York City.

Arrests were made by Troopers Frank Steiner, John Hutton and James Curtis.

Aids YMCA Summer Program

Explains Uses of Youth Corps Grant

The YMCA Youth Corps grant of $56,180 had its purposes and details explained today by Robert D. Stubbs, executive director of the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County.

The grant to the local agency to provide a summer job program for high school students from low economic families was announced last week by Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, (D-Ellenville).

Stubbs stated that nearly 100 different agencies in various locations around the county had been involved in one way or another in the development of this project with a special assist being received from the Ulster County Community Action Committee which acts as joint sponsor.

Under the project, youth who qualify may work up to 32 hours per week through September 2. They may work only for public agencies or for a private non-profit organization. The employing agencies provide supervision and on-the-job training experience for the enrollees, and also counselling where practicable. The enrollee is paid $1.50 per hour by the Youth Corps office.

Stubbs stated that the great majority of high school dropouts come from low economic families. In general, the purpose of this program is, through a good supervisory summer work experience which includes vocational and family counseling, to encourage the Youth Corps enrollee to remain in school through graduation, and then to enable this enrollee to become more employable upon graduation.

High school youths who leave school have difficulty finding employment because of their lack of skills. We hope through the Youth Corps program that enrollees, in addition to counselling, will acquire certain job skills for future use.

Many of the youth who will be enrolled in the program are from families receiving welfare assistance at the present time, Stubbs said, and it is important that the children not develop a vested interest in being poor. There is great personal satisfaction to be derived from a satisfactory work experience as those of us who are meaningfully employed are all aware, and we need to share this satisfaction with these less-advantaged youth. The Youth Corps program we hope will provide a vehicle where by the "welfare pattern" of some families can be broken, Stubbs said.

Stubbs announced that Joseph F. DeGiacomo has been employed as the project director. DeGiacomo is employed during the regular school year as a social case worker by the Kingston Schools Consolidated to work specifically with culturally deprived, disadvantaged families of the school district. He serves as a liaison between the school and home.

In his regular full-time job, he attempts to identify, evaluate, and modify conditions which tend to prevent a child from receiving optimum benefit from his educational experience. DeGiacomo is 42, married, has two children, and lives at Hillcrest Garden Apartments, Kingston. Employed to work with DeGiacomo as counselors in the project are Richard Barthel, teacher in the Saugerties School System, and Victor Nippert, health teacher at Kingston High School.

DeGiacomo stated the local corps is entitled to 105 enrollees in the project.

He hoped the Youth Corps staff would have recruited and placed on the job all 105 by early next week.

DeGiacomo listed the various schools and agencies where the Youth Corps enrollees will be employed. They include: New Paltz Central Schools, Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services, New Paltz, Ontario Central Schools, Walkkill Central Schools, Kingston Hospital, YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County, Ellenville Consolidated Schools, Village of Ellenville, Kingston Consolidated Schools, Saugerties Central Schools, Rondout Valley Central Schools, Town of Rochester.

Also, Rip Van Winkle Council Boy Scout office, Ulster County Girl Scout office, USAF Recruiting office, Ulster County Association for Retarded Children, Phoenicia Library, Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, Ulster County Community Action Committee, Ellenville Historical Society, Kingston City Library, and the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency.

Jobs include custodial aides, library aides, clerical aides, Teachers' aides, information aides, recreational aides, community organizer aides, research aides, and others.

Stubbs stated that the cooperation received from the guidance offices of the various school systems has been excellent, thereby making the job of the Youth Corps counselors easier in locating and understanding the enrollees who can best be served by the Youth Corps program. It is intended that at least once every 10 days, and more often if possible, the Youth Corps counselor will meet with enrollees at their job station, and have an opportunity to understand first hand the progress being made. This will also afford the counselor the opportunity to counsel with the supervisor of the enrollee toward a better understanding.

Frank H. Reis, member of the YMCA Youth Program and Extension Committee, commented that a full year project proposal had been submitted last fall, but that funds for the purpose were not available at that time. "We are delighted that funds were available to enable us to have this summer project, and we are hopeful this may be an indication that more funds will be forthcoming for a Youth Corps program during the school year," he said. Administrative and counselling space has been made available in the YMCA 507 Broadway, for the duration of the summer project.

The YMCA, a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest, is pleased to have been able to arrange for this additional source of funds to enable the "Y" to further relate itself to the needs of youth.

Set Swim Lessons At Point Beach

The Lifeguard Force at Kingston Point Beach will start giving swimming lessons on Wednesday, July 12 starting at noon. Lessons will be given on weekdays from 12 to 1 p. m. There will be no swimming lessons on weekends.

Anyone desiring to participate in the swimming classes is requested to be at the Beach at noontime on July 12 to register. Classes will be divided accordingly at this time and necessary instruction as to time of a particular lesson determined.

A new policy will be introduced this season whereby there will be no specific age group taught. Five-year-olds will be accepted and in some cases even a little younger if they are adaptable to the program. Older persons desiring to learn to swim will also be accepted. Many adults do not know how to swim.

A large turnout is anticipated for the swimming lessons so registration is important.

Ballot Box Power Urged To Ensure School Needs

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The new president of the National Education Association has told its members to use their power at the ballot box to ensure that education's needs are met.

"The entire teaching profession and education in America are in the midst of revolution," said Baulio Alonso at the NEA convention closing Friday night. "Whether this revolution brings progress or disaster will depend more on teachers and their organization than on any other single factor."

Alonso, a Tampa, Fla., high school principal, said "Politics is not an unsavory business. We, who teach government, who teach democratic concepts, who help perpetuate our form of government should be the first to assume an active role in the political process. We must teach by example as well as by precept."

He said the day when legislators pass school legislation out of friendship or magnanimity for educators is long past, if it ever existed.

Alonso said that some teachers have limited opportunity for status and advancement because of religion or the color of their skins. But he pledged renewed efforts to advance NEA's progress in breaking down such barriers in the organization.

The NEA also installed its first Negro vice president, Elizabeth D. Kooz, a public school teacher from Salisbury, N.C. She is expected to succeed to the presidency next year.

Earlier in the week, when she was nominated to the vice presidency, Mrs. Kooz, 47, called it a "significance." The significance, she explained, was not necessarily that she is the first Negro to be in line for the presidency.

Rather, she said, it was the fact "that this association is too astute a body not to elect someone in whom they have confidence."

Delegates passed a resolution supporting racial integration of public schools and calling for steps to eliminate de facto segregation by such methods as busing pupils to other neighborhoods.

"Education must seek to eliminate prejudice and bigotry from the public mind," said the resolution.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, a former teacher, told the convention that Americans should be willing to pay higher taxes and work harder to provide better education for underprivileged children.

He said that children from poverty-stricken homes face many handicaps and that they enter school "badly prepared by everything in their experience."

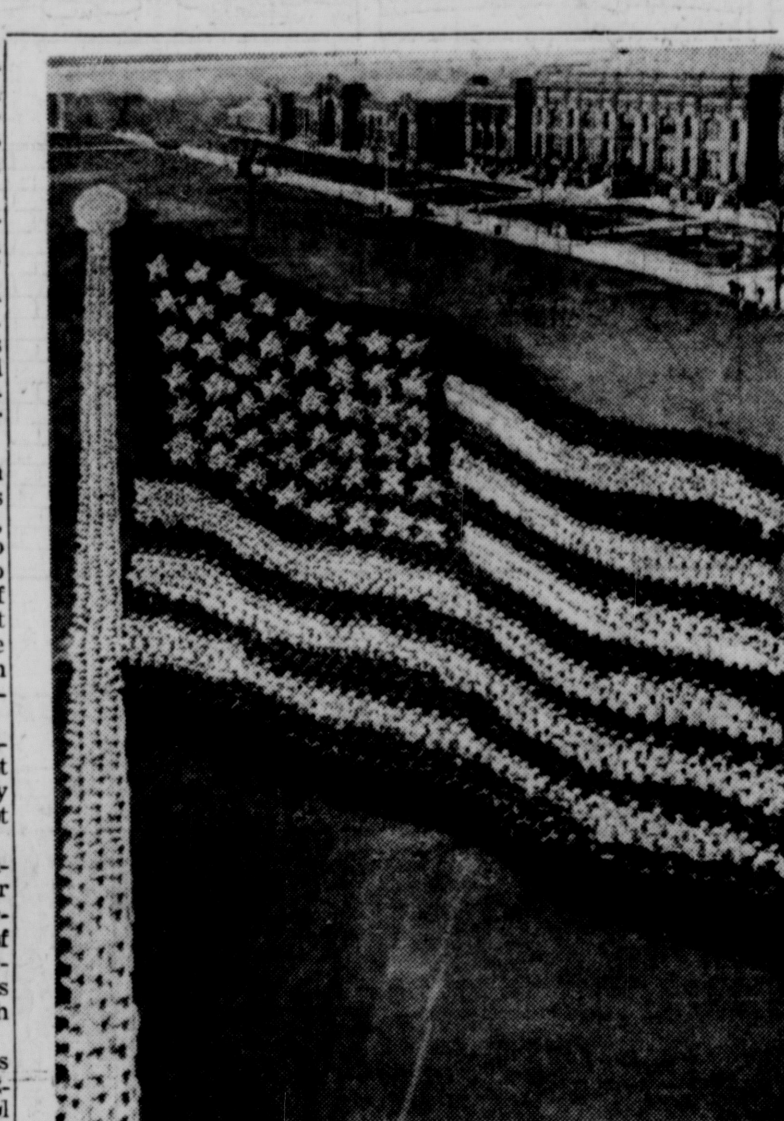

He recommended that school administrators and teachers devise means to keep schools open the year around to help poor children.

Humphrey pointed out that there are many former teachers at the top level of governments, including President Johnson, Humphrey, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and House Democratic Leader Carl Albert.

The vice president seconded Alonso's remarks about teachers being active in politics.

"Teachers," he said, "must be in the vanguard of politics, and in fact you are in politics just as much as I am. We should support one another as we develop a partnership to make American education more sensitive and relevant to the needs of children."

"LIVING FLAG"—In 1917 this "living flag" was formed by 9,600 sailors at Great Lakes, now 50-years later 8,500 sailors will march into Soldier Field, Chicago, Saturday, where some of them will don red plastic jerseys, and some will wrap themselves in blue capes and help form an immense "living flag." People will gather in the stands to pay tribute to the nation's flag and to all its servicemen, and so the ceremonies that will take place on the field can be called a celebration of patriotism. The event is being called a Mid-America Salute to the Flag. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

THE COLORFUL WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT

FULL WEEK'S TV LISTINGS FOR WEEK OF JULY 9th THRU JULY 15th

PREVIEW: "Miss Universe," midsummer's beauty spectacular, airs in color over CBS Saturday evening, July 15. The current "Miss Universe," Margareta Arvidsson, presides over the doings. Aiding her that night are Bob Barker and June Lockhart.

'Miss Universe' Pageant People Perspire Over 'What's Next?'

NEW YORK

By DON ROYAL

Why are beauty pageants amongst television's favorite spectator sports? One answer may be that, in addition to all those well-rounded girls in swimsuits, there's an air of unpredictability to them. Anything can happen.

Take, for example, the Miss Universe Pageant, which CBS will televise on Saturday, July 15th, 10-11:30 p. m. Eastern time, from Miami Beach. At the climax of last year's contest, Miss Sweden, Margareta Arvidsson was named the winner. Did she joyously claim her crown, $20,000 in cash awards and a lavish wardrobe?

Nope. Instead, the sultry Scandinavian burst into tears, wailing, "But I don't want to be Miss Universe." It was like hearing a toper swear off booze, or a politician reject a speaking tour.

Today, Margareta admits she was tired and scared.

"We Swedes are shy until we know people well," admitted the blue-eyed blonde, who will crown her successor on Saturday's telecast. "I thought of all the strangers I would meet, the personal appearances, the parties . . . and I panicked."

Like another Swedish beauty, Greta Garbo, the new Miss Universe wanted to be alone.

Today, Margareta is glad that her resignation, in front of some 50 million viewers was not accepted. "At 18 a girl grows up quickly," she said. "But I've grown faster than most. And I've also been 'Americanized.'"

"Americans are very outgoing and friendly. You meet someone for the first time, and if you like them, you throw your arms around each other. As a Swede, this shocked me at first. Now, though, when a stranger comes up, I slap him on the back like this . . ." she delivered a whack which would crumple Floyd Patterson, "and say 'Hullo there!'"

Margareta has met (and nearly flattened) some fascinating folk this way. But she doesn't believe that a year of global travel and publicity has changed her basic personality.

"I'm still . . . impulsive. If I see a good tree for climbing, and I'm in the mood, it doesn't matter who's there. I go up the tree. If a friend is in trouble, that's more important than any banquet or television show."

She paused momentarily, biting her lower lip. "Now that this adventure is nearly over, I realize what scared me most when I was named Miss Uni-

Newly crowned Miss U.S.A., Sylvia Hitchcock, left, shares the exultant moment with the reigning Miss Universe, Margareta Arvidsson. Sylvia will be the United States entry in this Season's contest, to be telecast over CBS Saturday, July 15, 10-11:30 Eastern Time.

verse—that I would turn into a phony, a fake. If that had happened, I'd have given back the money and clothes, and gone home to Gothenburg."

Instead Margareta is heading for New York and a modeling contract. When she finally does return to Sweden, she hopes to launch a movie career.

"But not in one of those typically Swedish films . . . about wild parties and free love," she was quick to explain. "The truth is that Scandinavian girls are every bit as moral and religious as girls in the United States. It's our movies which create a false impression."

American motion pictures are just as culpable, she insists. "Before I came here, I thought the average American family lived in a mansion, with servants, and two shiny new cars in the garage."

While Margareta's televised hysterics startled many viewers, it was not the first time the Pageant had produced an international contretemps.

Three years ago, for example, a burly, red-bearded figure in kilts stormed the Miami hotel where the contestants were billeted, demanding to see Miss Scotland. "You've kidnapped me poor Doreen," he bellowed. "Y've taken her from her loved ones across the sea, and y'be holdin' her in this den of thieves."

Waving his thorn cudgel, despite gentle restraint from security guards, he threatened to "crown every mother's son in this infamous place."

Bit by bit the story came to light. The gentleman was indeed Miss Scotland's boy friend, who had objected to her entry in the pageant. He'd followed her to the United States and since he couldn't believe his sweetheart would disobey him, got into his head that she'd been spirited away.

Miss Scotland finally calmed her quilted casanova, but decided to leave the pageant rather than lose him, and the Scottish runner-up was rushed over on the first plane out of Edinburgh.

A year ago, it was the combination of Miss Wales and a horse which put the pageant's producers in a state of shock. While the beauty entrants were visiting New York City, they were taken to Roosevelt Raceway, where an international trot was scheduled.

Miss Germany was photographed wishing the German horse good luck. Miss France had her picture taken with the French favorite. And Miss Wales was introduced to the Welsh champion . . . who promptly bit her on the arm.

Miss Wales was rushed to the race track infirmary where she neither cried nor complained as the wound was treated. But the trotter's trainer was visibly upset. "My horse has been on a careful diet," he complained. "He's a very delicate animal and this might upset him."

Most such problems fall to Herb Landon, the fete's executive director. Endowed with the air of a career diplomat, Landon has learned to take all dilemmas in stride.

"While the girls are in New York and Miami, they are chaperoned at all times," he explained. "But there are invariably several fellows—and a few girls themselves—who try to break our no-dates edict. This is how some of our oddest problems crop up."

A few years back, a young man's phone call to a Miss Universe contestant was intercepted by her chaperone.

"You've got to let me see her," pleaded the caller. "I'm going overseas tomorrow and who knows when I'll be back?"

The chaperone was touched. She assumed he was a soldier. But when she checked his story, it turned out that he was an insurance salesman, flying the next morning to a convention in Puerto Rico.

"I wasn't really lying," he admitted sheepishly. "I am going overseas."

Another fellow showed up at the hotel where the girls were staying wearing a stethoscope and carrying a black bag. He was there, he claimed, to examine several girls for symptoms of some rare tropical ailment, which was "going around." Fortunately, one of the chaperones was a registered nurse, who saw through his hilariously inaccurate medical jargon. When security guards checked the "doctor's" surgical kit, they discovered a generous quantity of scotch, rye and vodka, a thermos full of ice and several highball glasses.

By Saturday evening, however, all thoughts of social life will be past, as the girls share a single determination—to become the next Miss Universe.

They'll be guided by emcee Bob Barker, hostess June Lockhart and singer Jean Paul Vignnon.

While this is Barker's first visit to the annual spectacle, he has been boning up by viewing kinescopes of past "Miss Universe" shows, and by studying foreign phrase-books. The tall, personable emcee also has had experience as major-domo of "Truth or Consequences" and "The Family Game," as well as the recent "Miss USA Pageant."

"Still, I know I'll have to be on my toes," he admitted. "One year, at the pageant, a Polynesian maiden nearly came on stage in her 'authentic' native costume a grass skirt, a couple of leis, and nothing else."

"On another occasion, a girl was caught trying to slip into the crowd of beauties unobserved. She was wearing a sash which read, 'Miss Lower Slobbovia.' She'd made a bet that she could get on the show . . . and she very nearly won."

What will happen this year? No one knows for sure. Which is one reason 50 million viewers are expected to watch the girls go by next Saturday night.

Hurricane Fatalities

Hurricanes accounted for 126 deaths in the four-year period of 1962-66. Hurricane Betsy, in 1965, claimed 75 lives. Hurricane Audrey, in 1957, claimed a record toll of 395.

Ask TV Scout

RUGGED RYAN — Is Ryan O'Neal really a he-man or just another namby-pamby actor who acts like he is rugged? — T.A., Peoria, Ill.

There is absolutely nothing about O'Neal that would give him a "namby pamby" reputation, including his considerable boxing skills.

MARY'S TIME — Is Mary Stuart of Search for Tomorrow married? — Ada L., Palm Beach, Fla.

Mary is married to Richard Krolik, an executive with Time, Inc.

REEELY RICH — We keep reading how rich Jerry Lewis is, and Dale Robertson and a few others. Who is the richest man in television? — J.B., St. Paul, Minn.

Of course, it is impossible to say accurately who is the richest, nevertheless, the consensus of opinion on both coasts, is that Bob Hope rules the roost. He not only makes millions in personal appearances, but has TV, motion pictures, books and extensive holdings in real estate, oil and several other areas of financial operation.

A SPECIAL SEASON — It seems everytime I read about a show coming up this fall, it is some sort of special program. I have read very little about new series. How many specials will there be? — N. C. Miami, Fla.

We can't say at this time, although there definitely will be at least 300 programs in the special category. Some of these are actually a series of specials such as the National Geographic programs. Undoubtedly, as the season wears on, there will be even more added to the roster, especially in the area of topical news programming.

GREAT ONE - MINUS ONE — Can you tell us what Jackie Gleason's marital status is? — A. K., San Antonio, Texas.

Jackie is married but is separated and has been for many years.

STEAMED UP — I am still steaming over that pornographic program called The Pursuit of Pleasure and having to sit through one solid hour of the worst, and most tasteless television I have ever seen and would like to know to whom I can complain? — M. W., Hartford, Conn.

Your biggest complaint should be against yourself for not flipping the dial at any time during that hour. The second should be addressed to Mr. William R. MacAndrew, President, NBC News, Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N. Y.

ACTRESS ANDREA — What is the name of the model who asks "Is this any way to run an airline?" in the TV commercials, and is it possible she may do other things on TV besides commercials? — A. D., Duluth, Minn.

Andrea Dromm is the young lady who went from acting to modeling and is back acting again. You can see her on the ABC special Hit the Surf, Thursday, July 20.

A 'Big' Part

Los Angeles Dodgers' outfielder Lou Johnson has been signed for a small role in a segment of Chuck Connors' new series, Cowboy in Africa. To get him in the script required rewriting 14 pages. Not that his part is all that big. He really only has one line. He corners a man in an airplane and, in his best Swahili accent, says, "Now you die."

But it is a start.

Abbe Traded for Twiggy?

By STAN MAAYS

HOLLYWOOD — There was this ugly rumor that we had traded voluptuous Abbe Lane for Twiggy. That called for immediate action, like a satellite phone call to London to check it out.

"I'm here in London filming the first Spotlight variety show, that's all, and will be home next week," Abbe assured me, interrupting her midnight supper with the David Janssens in a Berkeley Square restaurant.

"Noel Harrison and I are co-hosts in this first of 26 films, some of which will be seen this summer in Red Skelton's spot, starting July 4 on CBS-TV."

Abbe scoffed at the thought of Twiggy, the slim symbol of the Mod generation, ever replacing her. "There's certainly much more of me than Twiggy," she laughed. "Three of her would make one of me."

The Spotlight series is a joint venture between Red Skelton's company and Britain's ATV network. The hour-long programs are being filmed at Elstree Studios in both color and black and white. Film, instead of tape, is to insure quality prints for the purpose of worldwide distribution.

In future shows, Phil Silvers, Trini Lopez, Robert Goulet, Victor Borge, Dahann Carroll and Phyllis Diller will be spotlighted. "They have some real heavyweights lined up," reports Abbe.

"And you're a pretty good heavyweight yourself," I suggested.

"Well, I don't know about that," she laughed, modestly, and then quickly added, "I hope not physically!"

"What do you do in the first show?" I asked.

"I do a portion of my nightclub act, a medley of Latin songs in Italian and Spanish," replied Abbe. "We open with 'To Be A Performer' from 'Little Me.'"

ABBE LANE

"I think the standout number is a kind of a 'folksanova' group of songs Noel and I do sitting on steps. Benny Hill, an English comedian, does a routine, and we close with a number called 'Elegant.' I think it makes an entertaining show."

"How about your wardrobe? Gowns? Maybe a mini-skirt?" I inquired.

"I choose all my own clothes," said Abbe. "I wear the kind of things I always do. In a cockney number I even wear overalls. I don't like a mini-skirt on anybody, except a 15-year-old girl that's built like Twiggy."

"Abbe, do you see any competition in your particular style?"

"No, I'd say there are many performers who are similar, but there are no imitators of me. I'm not a very competitive girl in my private life or my professional career. It's really never bothered me."

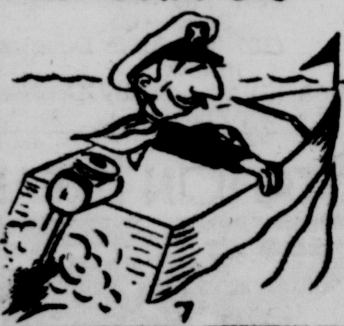

"Abbe, are you at the height of your career now?"

"No, I think there's room for improvement. It's true I haven't changed my style much, but I'd like to think that I'm a better performer now and not just an attractive woman — which is not bad, either!"

I went along with that, as I confidently hung up the phone having squelched another rumor.

Barbara Is Worth The Kink in the Neck

By FRANK LANGLEY

NEW YORK — Barbara Rhoades rose up from her chair . . . and rose and rose and rose.

When she finally stopped going up, she smiled down from her lofty six-foot altitude, shook my trembling hand and turned to walk, majestically into the restaurant.

Ordinarily, a short man feels terribly awkward escorting a woman who towers over him, but that's not the case with Barbara. There's no embarrassment at all. No one ever knows you are there. They are all too busy ogling the towering red-haired dazzler.

The only one taking little notice of the confusion that usually surrounds her is Barbara herself, who is honestly unaffected by her beauty, or and in motion pictures and her quick success on Broadway television.

"They tell me I'm a movie star now," she said with a look of disbelief. "Now isn't that nonsense."

"I made one movie at Universal and they liked it so they gave me a seven-year contract, and I made another movie. But neither film is out yet, so how can I be a movie star?"

Barbara is starred with Don Knotts in "The Shaggiest Gun in the West" and with Mary Tyler Moore and Robert Wagner in "Don't Just STAND There."

In the latter, she plays a statuesque writer who also happens to be a judo expert. The story evolves around her being kidnapped, and what happens to the girl-snatchers when she gets her arms free is something to behold.

"One of the stuntmen really scared me," she said. "I was supposed to toss him right over my head, flat onto a table which was to break up."

BARBARA RHOADES

my head, flat onto a table which was to break up.

"But I just can't get used to those props."

"I flipped him and he hit the table and the wood went flying every which way. He hit the floor with a thud and lay so still in the middle of all the wreckage that I really thought I might have killed him."

"So I rushed in and bent over him to see if he was really busted up and I ruined the whole scene."

Barbara is in town setting up some television appearances in connection with the films and with her new-found judo abilities.

She hopes to be doing her stuff soon with the likes of Johnny Carson, Merv Griffin and Mike Douglas.

"I think I could handle Johnny pretty well," she said. "But I don't know about Ed McMahon. He's pretty big."

Coming from Barbara, that's kind of funny.

Doodletown Pipers

The Doodletown Pipers are a group of 20 young people who will be seen on CBS-TV this summer on Our Place, a series replacing the Smothers Brothers for the warm months. (Andy Griffith has said of them, "It's so nice to see a group where you can tell the boys from the girls.")

The toughest part about handling the group is getting them together at the same time. Ward Ellis and George Wilkins, co-founders of the group, have solved the problem. Individuals are now fined 50 cents for every minute they are late to a rehearsal, an airport or an engagement. The money goes into a "fun fund." At one time the kitty had $100 in it, and the money was used to pay for a going away party for Gene Myer, whose services had been commandeered by Uncle Sam's army.

Oscar-Emmy-Clio

Woody Allen's wife, Louise Lasser, has just signed a lucrative contract with General Foods for TV commercials. One commercial she did, plugging a cheesecake mix, won a "Clio," the commercial equivalent of an Oscar.

Questions and answers about Freedom Shares—the new way for Americans to help their country as they help themselves.

Q. What are Freedom Shares?

A. They are the new U.S. Savings Notes—a companion product to the Series E Savings Bond.

Q. Who may buy Freedom Shares?

A. Any individual who purchases Series E Bonds regularly through a formal plan—either Payroll Savings where he works or Bond-a-Month where he banks.

Q. What is the interest rate on Freedom Shares?

A. 4.74% compounded semiannually, when held to maturity of 4½ years. The rate is less if redeemed prior to maturity; and they may not be redeemed for at least one year.

Q. Does this same rate now apply to E Bonds?

A. No. E Bonds continue to return an average of 4.15% when held to their seven-year maturity.

Q. What do Freedom Shares cost?

A. They are issued in face amounts of $25, $50, $75, and $100. Purchase prices are $20.25, $40.50, $60.75, and $81.00.

Q. Can Freedom Shares be bought by themselves?

A. No. They must be bought in conjunction with E Bonds of the same or larger face amounts.

Q. Can I buy as many Freedom Shares as I want, as long as I buy E Bonds of the same or larger amounts?

A. No. On Payroll Savings, Freedom Share deductions are limited to $20.25 per weekly pay period, $40.50 per bi-weekly or semimonthly pay period, $81.00 per monthly pay period. On Bond-a-Month, the limit on Freedom Share deductions is $81.00 per month.

Q. How will the Freedom Shares be registered?

A. Registration must be identical with the E Bonds bought in combination.

Q. Are Freedom Shares subject to taxation?

A. The same as E Bonds. Interest is subject to Federal income tax, which may be deferred until maturity or redemption (whichever comes first). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes. Current values are subject to estate, inheritance, gift, and other excise taxes, both Federal and state.

Q. Will Freedom Shares be extended beyond maturity, as E Bonds have been?

A. No. Under existing law, there is no provision for extension.

All for Nothing

The final show filmed for Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea last season required David Hedison to take a fairly spectacular fall. He begged director Sobey Martin to let him do the stunt himself. Martin finally agreed and David did the fall perfectly. But in getting up, he lost his balance and tore a tendon in his right leg. So he began his hiatus with his leg in a cast. He probably would have thought it was all worth it had his fall remained in the film. But it had to be cut out because David wound up looking like Red Skelton doing a prat-fall.

GEORGE MAHARIS
The pendulum has swung . . .

Maharis Knocks Material

BY JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA)—Nothing, not even a major career setback, could wipe that infectious, I'll-lick-the-world grin off the face of George Maharis.

As it happens, George has sufficient reason to grin — a new house in Los Angeles ("It's on top of a hill and it's like my old cold-water flat in New York on 49th Street. Anyone with the nerve to climb up has to stay for awhile."); a forthcoming appearance on television on Piccadilly Palace, and a movie release, "The Happening."

But there's also a but in his life, a hitch. After skyrocketing to fame and fandom as star of television's Route 66, George went on to a career as an actor and a recording artist. He has made five movies, and a couple of record albums, but he hasn't really fulfilled his early promise. The fault lies, not in George, but in the material he has been given.

"Nothing has been like the kind of role I created on TV, which was really me," he said. "I can't say I have been satisfied with my career, but let's look at it logically. Things go on that are out of my control. The kind of story and part I would have loved playing—the John Garfield type—is being done on TV today but not the movies. The pendulum has swung and no one is building stars today. And I don't want to be a contract player. I would die under a contract. If I thought someone else in the company felt as I did and knew the kind of parts that are right for me, I wouldn't feel so badly about a contract. But that doesn't happen."

Weekly, George gets offers for television series, but he doesn't want another one.

"A career takes time to build, and I'm building right now. If someone came up with something for TV that I thought was really marvelous, then I would do it. But I won't do one for the sake of money. They keep telling me, 'You could be a rich man in a year.' I say, 'Yeah. Then what do I do? Drink?'"

In January, a strikingly pretty young thing named Mami Sebring was presented to television audiences as a star of tomorrow on the Deb Star Ball. She had already completed her first movie, for Walt Disney Productions, "The Gnome-Mobile."

But it wasn't until the Deb Star Ball that she decided to become an actress. And it wasn't until February that she began to study her craft seriously.

Formerly a top cosmetic model for magazines and talks enthusiastically about television commercials, Cami finding "a great acting class that gave me insight to the fact that acting is art. Eric Morris runs it and he's brilliant, fantastic — and it takes a lot to interest me."

Cami (it's short for Camille)

CAMI SEBRING
... it takes a lot to interest me.

had not previously made a commitment to acting because she found the other acting classes she attended phony. "No one went at acting as if it were a craft. The teachers paid attention only to the girl in the tightest sweater."

It wasn't Cami, although it could have been. When she became a model with the Ford Agency in New York, Cami, who stands 5-feet-3 and weighs 105, was told she had to do something about her figure. "I'm not slim," she says, "and I have a bust."

Must Know to Grow

By STAN MAAYS

HOLLYWOOD — One thing Dabbs Greer likes to do in his his acting (he avoids the term method) is to grow with the part. Apply a little amateur psychology.

"Maybe it's just a little thing that nobody became aware of," said Greer in that quizzical look of his, "but by adding a few pounds when I played coach Weiss in the Hank series (NBC-TV) I was showing how he was in the throes of frustration. The body is as much a part of a performance as anything else."

Greer has appeared in 84 movies, playing everything from a ranchhand in a John Wayne western to the mechanic who supplied a wad of gum for Lindberg (James Stewart in "The Spirit of St. Louis") to make a pocket mirror stick in his plane.

It was while he was teaching 11th grade English in his Anderson, Mo., hometown that Greer became interested in little theater. Soon producing, directing and stage managing became his full-time occupation.

"When I came to California to join the Pasadena Playhouse in 1940 it gave me the chance to test some theories I had about acting," said Greer, who during eight years with the Playhouse rose from staff instructor to Dean of Academic Studies.

"I got a real education in those early days of TV," he remembers. "The head cameraman and the cutter taught me one of the most important things I ever learned—matching! For example, just knowing how to take off your glasses between camera setups so's not to lose continuity can save invaluable time."

"And another thing — which used to bug me — I got so that I could learn 14 pages of dialogue, and then by indirection, I guess, or luck, I'd completely erase it all from my mind. This is so you won't have something you've already done crop up in your next acting assignment."

DABBS GREER

Greer wasn't particularly thrilled about landing in a series. Up until Hank he'd avoided them "like the plague." He wasn't set for the continuing role of the eccentric coach, but was prevailed upon to stick with the role which, he admits, became somewhat of a challenge.

"I had hoped to learn more about a series by being in one, but I don't know now," Greer frankly reveals. I'd have mixed emotions about doing another one. Oh, I'd certainly miss the daily contact with people around me. But there are things I'd like to understand more about.

"I'd like to find out what goes on in a producer's office. What happens to discarded ideas? There were a lot of questions I asked that never go answered. And I need to know. It's the only way for me to grow."

Forget the Camera

Flip Wilson, who is appearing all over TV these days, says the whole trick in TV comedy is to forget the cameras. "If you can't seize the studio audience attention, your timing is thrown off. And the only way to get their attention is to concentrate completely on them."

Star Treatment

Doubles for stars hardly ever get a moment of recognition. But Earl Parker, who doubles for Vic Morrow on Combat, got the star treatment once. Part of the company went to France for location shots. Parker, doubling for Morrow, was photographed constantly, running across bridges, in and out of a famed chateau, etc. The people in the area thought he was a star, so he got wine and dined by the local citizenry every night.

Buy Bonds where you work.

It's miserable work, crawling through a rice paddy. And being shot at. This American does the job for freedom's sake. So do thousands of his buddies. Many of these brave men also support freedom with their dollars. A majority of our servicemen overseas are investing in U.S. Savings Bonds. Would you like to show this man you're with him? One good way is to buy Savings Bonds where you bank or join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. You'll make a good investment. And you'll walk a bit taller. .

'So Much Is Lost For Fear of Trying'

BY STAN MAAYS

HOLLYWOOD—James Griffith usually plays an eastern-type in westerns on TV. He's the guy, always wearing a derby and carrying carpetbag luggage, who steps off the stagecoach.

But there's one thing more about Griffith's portrayal. His almost perpetual glum expression is a deep-seated one, considerably deeper than the demands of his character of the moment.

He's bitter about the inroads the youth movement is making in the film industry, and its effect on veteran performers like himself.

"There's a stigma in this town," he warns. "Producers say, 'If he costs that much, he's got to be that good.' They then weigh an actors' established price against the part they have in mind, then usually pick some dedicated youth with a new face for half the cost."

"As a working actor I can't afford not to be choosy. I've lost out on two roles recently because of this situation. They all pay lip service to this trend, and I'm sick of it."

Griffith, who's had 20 years of stage, movie and TV performances in his background, reluctantly confesses that he's recently had to take a cut to do a decent role. "And once you've done that, you never get back," he sadly admits.

What recourse is there for a "working actor" to maintain his hold on his career? Some go into real estate, run restaurants, open shops or moonlight in jobs elsewhere.

Griffith, who once played sax in Spike Jones' band—until he asked for a raise—turned to songwriting. He's collaborated with former Pied Piper Hal Hopper on a number of title tunes for movies. Writing screen plays and little theater coaching has helped, too.

"There are a few producers-directors, like George Sherman and Aaron Rosenberg, that I have rapport with," says Griffith, in again citing his main interest. "They'll cast me because they know they won't have to hunt and peck for a character. An actor must have something to take with him on the set otherwise he's stereotyped."

Griffith has a rapport with some actors, too, others far more successful than he. Glenn Ford, an old high school classmate of his, bumped into him one day and asked why he hadn't called him for a part. Griffith's pride got in the way of his answer: "You know where I've been all the time."

Experienced actors often turn to directing, applying their knowledge of the business to another outlet. But you have to be a serious star to be so privileged. There's slim chance for a supporting actor like Griffith to ever get to call the shots. But he has hopes.

Years ago Griffith recalled the adulation he received in Japan while on a personal appearance tour for the U. S. Marshall series. Zealous autograph seekers literally stopped traffic when they spotted him.

Perhaps he's recalling dogged enthusiasm of these fans to bolster his present morale. He broke into a rare grin when he mentioned a favorite expression of his: "So much is lost for fear of trying."

Bar Owner Bars His Own Wife!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 29 and the mother of three children under 10. My husband owns a very popular bar-lounge in town. (We live in a suburb.) He comes home anywhere from 3 to 6 in the morning. He gets up about 11 a. m. and goes to work at about 3:30 p. m.

I don't mind his being in the bar business because it's been good to us, but I do resent very much his FORBIDDING me ever to come to his place of business unannounced or uninvited. (By the way, I never have, and I probably never would, so he doesn't have to worry.)

He forbids me to set foot in his place except when HE takes me—which is always on the deadeast night of the week.

It's a respectable bar, and caters to women as well as men. This may sound silly to you, but his forbidding me to come by has become such a source of bitterness that I have developed ulcers. It is actually ruining our relationship. Can you tell me what to do—BITTER-HALF

DEAR BITTER-HALF: Tell your husband that you have had about as much FORBIDDING as you can stand, and that if he values your marriage he will accompany you to an impartial third party to help resolve your problems. If you have no clergyman to guide you, ask your family physician to recommend a marriage counselor, psychiatrist, or psychologist.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the guard house for going A.W.O.L. I've been here 3 weeks, and I hate to tell you how much longer I've got in here because this is my third A.W.O.L.

My girl friend just sent word to me that she is pregnant. Do you think they would let me out long enough to marry her?

DEAR WORRIED: Talk to the chaplain and plead your case. Maybe they'll allow you just enough liberty to marry the girl. But don't expect a honeymoon.

DEAR ABBY: We were given a dog as a gift, and everything is just fine, except for one matter:

After we have dinner, my husband gives the dog his plate to lick clean.

I think this is a disgusting practice, and could be dangerous to our health. My husband says as long as all the dishes go into the automatic dishwasher and are rinsed in boiling water, it doesn't make any difference. What do you think about this?

RED'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell Red that if "it doesn't make any difference," you'd just as soon have your own dishes and let the dog have his.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a couple who take your husband out to eat every night, but do not include you?

My husband works with this man, and every evening he and his wife invite my husband out to dinner. They know he's married and they know me very well, yet I am ignored as if I didn't exist.

DEAR I.O.: I don't think much of the couple. But why blame them? Your husband doesn't have to accept unless he wants to.

WITHOUT WALT—What will happen to Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color after the reruns are over? Is there to be another host in place of Mr. Disney, or is the show even staying on without him? — D. C., St. Petersburg, Fla.

The Disney series will continue without Walt, and without a host. The format will be changed slightly so that visual effects will take the place of the chores Mr. Disney so gracefully handled.

THE JAMES BOYS—Are Art James and Dennis James related? They sure look enough alike to be brothers. — C. H., Newport, Va.

The name is the same, and we agree about the looks, but they are not related.

TOUGH TICKETS—Which is the harder ticket to get, Johnny Carson or Ed Sullivan? And how far in advance should we try to get them? — E. E., Tuscon, Ariz.

Johnny Carson, with five shows a week, is your better bet. You can't send soon enough for these very tough tickets.

CARL'S CRANIUM—We have seen Carl Reiner both with and without hair. Now we know he is bald, but don't know what his game is. If he wants to wear a hairpiece, why not all the time? — A. L., Eugene, Ore.

Carl doesn't really want to wear his hair at all. He would just as soon be bald all the time. But he is in show business and realizes his obligation, at times, to look the part. The only time you'll see him with the "topper" is when he is "on."

Who Am I?

When Gloria Swanson was a guest on The Beverly Hillbillies this past season, she had a chauffeured limousine drive her from her dressing room to the set. The distance was less than 100 yards, but Miss Swanson avoids the sun like the plague.

She played herself in the show, but the role was really a burlesque. Otherwise she doesn't like playing herself. "I wish I could play a scrubwoman," she said. "I feel awkward playing myself. Before I could always hide in the character. But when you are playing yourself, there you are. I can't say exactly what the role is like either, because I don't know what I am."

Cites Apathy

CENTER HARBOR, N.H. (AP)—The general secretary of the National Council of Churches says church unity is still far from fact and may be endangered by complacency.

Dr. R.H. Edwin Espy of New York told an ecumenical conference, "The phenomena of world ecumenicity as it has developed in the past decade has become so familiar that people may begin to take it for granted."

He Just Cannot Lose

By FRANK LANGLEY

NEW YORK — All the talk of the decline in TV series' popularity, largely based on the increasing popularity of specials, doesn't disturb producer-agent Richard O. Link in the slightest.

Dick Link has made a small fortune guiding the television careers of Andy Griffith and Jim Nabors, both of whom rest in the top ten ratings for series.

But he also has a booming success story with specials. Last year he produced both The Andy Griffith Special and Friends and Nabors. The two shows ran third and fourth of the season's top specials.

"There's no doubt about the growing popularity of specials," Link said in a voice that varied from modern Runyonesque to early Dean Rusk.

"And I'm living proof of it. CBS has just signed me to produce three specials. They didn't tell me what they are looking for, and I am not sure what I am going to do. All they know is that I've had some damn good shows on, and they want some more."

"That's the nature of this nutty business. You either buy a property, like a story or play, or else you buy somebody to create a property . . . out of nothing at all. That's me."

Link is the epitome of the new breed of the TV hierarchy, the business agents.

He began his career as a writer, then press agent, then manager. In the last, he found his niche.

"I've got a talent," he said. "Most people, and almost every show business person, hates to bargain. They would work for half or even a quarter of their worth just because they don't want to haggle, or make a stand.

"But me, I love the fight. I can't wait to start negotiations on anything I'm doing. Of course, when the battle with the brass is over, and usually won, I feel a sense of accomplishment. But I also feel a little let down, just because it's over."

Having the sizeable interest in series, with the Griffith and Gomer Pyle programs in his back pocket, Link was asked about the future of series in the face of TV's new interest in specials.

"There are other things besides specials that will be changing television in the next few years," he answered. "And part of the change will be a decline in the number of series."

"But don't believe the dome heads who tell you series are doomed. As long as there is a television, there will be series, and that comes from a specials producer."

Too Intellectual?

There's an ironic story involving a Star Trek two-part story, recently repeated, which won a "Hugo," a National Science Fiction Award, when it was first telecast.

The two-parter was made up of the original pilot, starred Jeffrey Hunter, who would have been the star had the series sold two years ago. NBC hesitated about the series because they felt it was too intellectual. Producer Gene Roddenberry kept after the network, and they finally agreed to a second pilot with a different cast.

Leonard Nimoy was the only holdover from the original show, so he became the focal point of the two-parter.

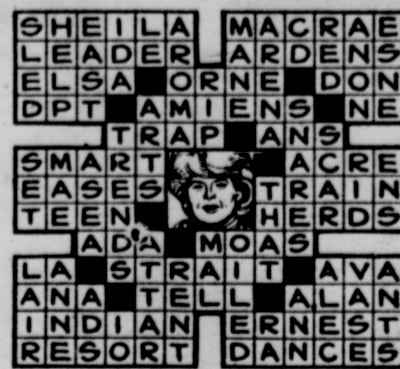

Utter Peace

What every man who likes to play the drums should have: a sound-proof room. That's what Bill Cosby has in his new Beverly Hills home. He is also in the process of installing a screening room large enough to accommodate 50 people.
